County census tract plan to be offered Wednesday

The Williamson County Census Tract Project will reach the end of its first stage Wednesday when a proposal for establishment of 12 county tracts is submitted to the project's Executive Committee.

Committee Chairman Harry Gold has issued an invitation for the public to join local government representatives from throughout the county in reviewing the proposal, which will be submitted during a 9 a.m. meeting in the Council Room of Georgetown's City Hall, 103 W. 7th St.

INITIATED early this year, the Census Tract Project aims to generate new sources of information for local governments in Williamson County by getting the county included in the Austin Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) for the 1980 federal census.

The U. S. Census Bureau regularly assembles a vast array of incredibly detailed information about each area of SMSAs following each decade's census. This information is often useful, or even vital, for acquistion of federal grants by local governments.

But to be included within an SMSA, the area in question must establish a series of census tracts satisfactory to the Census Bureau.

The goal of the Williamson County project is to establish such a plan and submit it to the federal government by June 30.

FRED POND, a planner recently hired to develop a preliminary plan for the tracts, said late this week he would submit to the Executive Committee an outline of 12 possible tracts ranging in population from about 3,000 persons to nearly 8,000.

Census Tract Number	Size
201	5640
202	4608
203	6660
204	4368
205	4394
206	7414
207	3060
208	2962
209	3412
210	6055
211	4263
212	7788

In the course of devising the tracts plan, Pond has also delved into past, present, and possible future populations in various sections of the county.

FOR INSTANCE, he estimates Georgetown's present population at 9,627, a gain of 3,232 residents or 50.5 percent since the 1970 census; Round Rock at 8,181, a gain of 5,370 or 191 percent; and Taylor at 12,429, a gain of 2,813 or 29.2 percent.

Pond has tentatively projected Georgetown's 1980 population at 11,508, Taylor's at 14,067, and Round Rock's at 11,306.

He estimates Williamson County's present population at 60,501 (up 23,196 from the last count) and its 1980 population at 74,000.

Pond said the proposed census tracts may be changed before the final plan is submitted to the government.

He added that area residents might be interested to learn more at Wednesday's meeting about how the county has grown and how it might grow.

WOODEN RAILINGS on the new Hike and Bike Trail bridge in San Gabriel Park in Georgetown broke up Friday evening as the swollen waters of the South San Gabriel River rushed over it.

The rains came— and just kept on

Farmers in Williamson County wanted rain, and rain was what they got; starting with thundershowers Thursday night. It continued to rain off an on until the SUN went to press Friday afternoon.

Friday evening Williamson County was still under a severe thunderstorm watch as rising water continued to close many county roads.

FM 1660 between Jonah and Hutto was closed Friday evening along with County Roads 273, 271, 279, 100, 140, 190 and 369.

The intersection of State Highway 195 and U. S. 183, just west of Florence, was not closed but several small cars had been stranded in the area due to the rising water.

The new Hike and Bike Trail Bridge in San Gabriel Park in Georgetown, officially open only about two weeks, had the wooden railings badly broken up as the South San Gabriel River rose over it.

Thursday night there were several tornados reported in the Cedar Park area in southwestern Williamson County, but there were no reports of property damages.

There were also reports of hail damage in the Volente area Thursday night.

Man sought in Round Rock not 'molester'

A man earlier described as a "child molester" has neither actually harmed or sexually abused any Round Rock children nor even broken any laws so far as authorities there know, Round Rock Police Chief Kenneth Langston reported late this week.

LANGSTON CAUTIONED against public alarm in this area, explaining that his office has received no reports of children being physically harmed or abused in connection with a case reported in Thursday's SUN.

But he confirmed and reiterated that his department is seeking information about a man who has reportedly made questionable approaches to several young girls in that city.

Langston said his department has received reports that a man has made suggestions to some girls between the ages of 6 and 12 indicating that he wants them to go somewhere with him.

"We've been getting about 50 calls a day here, and some of them are from mothers who have heard rumors that girls have been raped and murdered. We don't have any reports like that," said Langston.

"In fact, he (the man) actually hasn't even broken any laws as far as we know and no charges have been filed against anyone. We're just worried about such a guy and what he might do."

LANGSTON CONFIRMED that his office is seeking information about a man described as follows: Caucasian, 45-55 years old, 5'9" to 6 feet tall, between 180-190 pounds, with fair complexion, hazel eyes, and white or grey hair which may be slightly tan or light brown at a receding hairline.

The man is reported to be heavy-set or stocky, of medium build and with a "beer belly", and distinguished by a scar on the right side of his nose similar to the scar left by a lanced mole or boil.

He is also described as having a gentle, persuasive voice marked by an occasional stutter.

According to report, the man is well-dressed and well-groomed, usually wearing either a blue suit and pants, and at times checkered shirts and jackets.

HE IS REPORTED to drive several cars, including a two-tone brown 1969-71 Chevrolet and a 1970-'76 foreign compact.

He is reported to approach girls between the ages of 6 and 12 during early morning and late afternoon hours and seems to select them after careful study rather than at random.

Round Rock officer Larry Newman said earlier in the week that six such incidents have been reported since last October, with other reports in December and February and the latest March 30.

Citizens with information concerning the case should contact the Round Rock police department at 255-3692.

Bond issue back on agenda

Georgetown school trustees have again placed a vote on the proposed $1,570,000 bond issue on the agenda for their 7 p.m. Monday meeting. The issue was scheduled for a vote at the called meeting on April 11, however, architect Eugene McKee was unable to attend and the vote was delayed until Monday.

The money for the bond would be used to finance proposed changes and additions to Georgetown Primary School, Westside School and Northside Middle School.

THE LAST FIGURES the board discussed for the Primary School were $438,500 to add 10 classrooms, a new cafeteria and remodel the old cafeteria to provide resource rooms, teacher lounge and music rooms. Westside changes were estimated at $580,300, including building a larger cafeteria and converting the existing cafeteria. Expenses at Northside were expected to reach $241,500 for remodeling the girl's dressing room, building a new dressing room, adding restrooms and building five classrooms.

The board will canvass the election returns, swear in new members and reorganize, electing new officers, president, vice-president and secretary, for one year terms.

Approval or disapproval of the school calendar for 1977-78 is also on the agenda. The Texas House of Representatives recently passed a bill cutting the school year from 180 to 174 days and changing the number of in-service training days for teachers from 10 to six per year. These changes may, if approved by the Senate, have an effect on the Georgetown school calendar.

THE PUBLIC is encouraged to attend the meeting in the Georgetown High School Library.

Most farmers and all ranchers were happy to see the moisture and everyone wondered if the rivers would rise high enough to test the partially built dams. When I wrote this the rivers weren't that high.

I THINK IT'S ALL RIGHT that the $50 rebate plan was scrapped. What we need is tax relief on a broad, consistent scale, the stabilization of our monetary values, the end of hot inflation and jobs. I doubt that the rebate, as considered, would have benefitted any of those needs. I noted in the Friday papers that Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board hailed Carter's decision, and said of the president — "This is an act of extraordinary honesty and courage." Strange how this works, if we had disagreed we would say it was the double-cross — "Ye old president has welched on his word!"

Our Centennial Issue of the SUN is making progress at a painfully slow pace. It's due to appear May 19 and if we don't make a lot more headway in the next 30 days than we have in the past 60 it's going to be slimmer than I expected.

Cleanup Week begins Monday

Don't forget that this coming week will present an opportunity for Georgetown residents to get rid of trash, brush, abandoned vehicles and other unwanted items free of charge as the city holds its ninth annual Cleanup Campaign.

THE DRIVE, co-sponsored by the city and the Greater Georgetown Area Chamber of Commerce, will cover all areas within the city limits.

City Mgr. Leo Wood, directing the effort along with Chamber Mgr. Lloyd Longley, said residents will have Monday to get their items prepared for pickup. The city hopes residents will get those items out to their curbsides Monday instead of waiting until Tuesday, so pickup crews will not be overwhelmed toward the end of the drive.

Both trash and brush to be picked up should be placed at the resident's curbside. Trash should be placed in containers, but brush need not be bundled.

To arrange pickup of especially large or heavy items such as stoves, call the Chamber office (863-2251). Specify what is to be picked up and where.

REMOVAL of junked and abandoned vehicles will be handled by the Police Dept.

Campaign directors point out that Cleanup Week is a good time to get rid of the results of spring cleaning.

Mayor John Doerfler has also officially proclaimed Cleanup Week and urged all Georgetown residents "to work with the City of Georgetown, Williamson County and the Chamber of Commerce to make this an outstanding project."

Week's news in a nutshell

The City of Austin recently moved to annex 358 acres in strips along U. S. 183 and FM 620, saying that the move is necessary to impose some planning standards on growth in that area. Officials in both Cedar Park and Round Rock have raised questions about the annexation, with Cedar Park officials saying it would cut off further growth for them and Round Rock officials questioning whether Austin should control a subdivision that gets its water from Round Rock.

BEING AN OUTLAW may be in fashion for young country western singers, but it's still hard for that longlived rancher's foe, the coyote. It may be coyotes in Lampasas, but it's bandits in New York City. A local New York gun club has offered a $200 bounty to robbery victims who manage to slay their bandits. Three merchants have already qualified.

OUR GOVERNMENT 'BURNING BOOKS'

Britain's Sir Winston Churchill earned millions with his books and paintings but, Britain's estate taxes being what they are, his widow had to auction household furnishings to pay for food, medicine and rent.

DOUBTLESS SIR WINSTON was convinced that he was leaving his "darling Clementine" comfortably fixed, but what with taxation and inflation she, at 91, has no income beyond a widow's pension of $27 a week.

It can happen here, too.

That's not the whole of it.

Should De Grazia die, leaving to his heirs those paintings, they would immediately become part of his taxable estate at whatever value the government's appraisers should decree.

GOVERNMENT APPRAISERS could say they were "worth $2 million" and the heirs would have to come up with more than a million cash for taxes — from somewhere.

Sell the paintings? Logical, except that to flood the market with the paintings of any artist would cheapen them to a fraction of their rightful value.

Wildlife artist Larry Toschik recently destroyed 26 years of his life's work, fearful that his widow might otherwise be impoverished by inheritance taxes.

TO PREVENT NIXON from doing the same thing, the Congress hastily slammed shut that tax "loophole," but in a manner which includes literary and art works.

That is why the death of Calder created consternation in the marketplace.

I think that is why Hemingway's widow is publishing anything subsequent over her own name.

I know that is why Igor Stravinsky, when he learned his $3.5 million gift to Yale would yield no tax relief for his heirs, sent those precious manuscripts to Russia instead!

BEYOND THE FACT that this is another law which destroys incentive for producers, the cruelest affront to the artists themselves is that their estates are taxed out of existence by a government which spends millions to subsidize junk art!

Anyway, if you hear again and again of bonfires of books or manuscripts or paintings, the world is being deprived of those treasures only because the widows could otherwise be left destitute.

And yet to be heard is a test case alleging that the artists' bonfires are "destruction of government property."

Should that come to pass, as the late artist Thomas Hart Benton once said, "I wouldn't dare paint another picture."

Pawnshops: fewer but busier

By John D. Moorhead

Chicago

Looking for a Gibson L5 guitar or a Leica IIIG camera? And the corner music or photo store cannot help, because these models are no longer manufactured?

Try a pawnshop. That is what many collectors of antiques and other scarce items are doing these days.

Only trouble is, the number of pawnshops is shrinking and has been for the last 10 years.

In New York City, such shops have dwindled from 100 to 30, reports David Cohen, president of the Pawnbrokers Association of the City of New York.

Still, brokers contacted in New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles report that business is brisk. The bulk of the trade is in jewelry and watches, with typewriters, TVs, musical instruments, and other assorted oddments making up a typical pawnshop inventory.

Most of what is pawned is on the up-and-up, Mr. Cohen stoutly maintains. "Stolen property amounts to less than 1 percent of the loans," he says, arguing that pawnbrokers make regular reports to the police on their transactions. He explains that it is in their self-interest to guard against accepting goods that they might later have to surrender to the police without compensation.

Pawnbrokers say in interviews that the amount of cash they will shell out for a "pledged" item varies with its nature and quality. Jewelry may bring 35 to 40 percent of what the broker thinks it is worth, while items which go out of style rapidly, like clothing, may bring 20 percent or less.

Some popular items for which collectors are scouring pawnshops right now include:

- "Hunting case," watches. These are pocket watches with a cover you can close. Typically they are gold, with scroll work and/or initials on their covers. They sell for between $100 and $400.
- Fine cameras such as Leica, Nikon, and Hasselblad. A Leica IIIF or IIIG, neither of which is produced any longer, sells for $90 or $100.
- Gibson guitars made in the late 1950s.

There is no national trade association for pawnbroking, so comprehensive statistics are hard to come by. And the business is heavily influenced by local conditions. State laws vary widely in setting maximum interest rates which can be charged the pawnor and minimum periods that the pawned item must be held before a shop may offer it for sale.

Nevertheless, the pawnshop seems to be under pressure all across the United States.

Sidney Swesnik thinks that is what is happening. And he cites his native Chicago as an example. "Ten years ago, there were 65 to 70 pawnshops here; now, there are 15 or 16."

In 1910, his father founded the Swesnik Loan Company, a pawnshop which Sidney Swesnik and his brother now operate in the steel-imposed shade of the Loop's elevated trolley tracks. Mr. Swesnik has been a pawnbroker all his life, except for a "vacation" fighting Axis troops in North Africa and Italy during World War II.

Both Mr. Swesnik and Mr. Cohen cite rising costz as one reason for the decline of pawnshops. Mr. Cohen estimates that in New York the cost of doing business has risen five-fold since 1970.

Mr. Swesnik points to the annual $2,400 annual licensing fee, inflating labor and utilities costs, and the cost of money itself.

Capital is important in pawnbroking, just as it is in any business. The required time that items must be held in warehouse space before they can be sold ties up capital which often must be borrowed.

In Illinois, for example, an item must be held 13 months before the pawnbroker can sell it. In New York, the period is six months, but the item must be held a year if the pawnor so requests. States such as Indiana and Nevada have shorter holding periods, however.

If you hanker for a pocket watch just like your grandfather used to carry, why not head for the nearest pawnshop? But when you get there don't be surprised to find empty, dust-patterned display windows and a "for lease" sign taped to the door.

Whose miscalculation?

"Miscalculation" seems to be the spreading code word for putting the blame for the breakdown of the strategic arms talks on the Americans instead of the Russians. President Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance are being asked to affirm or deny that they "miscalculated" in framing the offer the Kremlin so crudely rejected.

Mr. Carter and Mr. Vance may have miscalculated in choosing their staff, since the "miscalculation" code word got started on Secretary Vance's airplane..

Who was it on Mr. Vance's plane who came back from Moscow arguing the Russian case? The question does not seem to have escaped Mr. Carter's people, since press spokesman Jody Powell specifically denied the stories.

The stories are also, though, an accurate reflection of the proclivity of a U.S. bureaucracy to respond to Soviet intransigence by starting to negotiate with itself. For some reason which has always been mysterious to us, arms negotiators have trouble entertaining the possibility that the Soviets are not interested in an even-handed deal but in advantages for themselves. If you start with the assumption of Soviet good faith, you can always figure an agreement is merely a matter of giving a little more here and asking a little less there.

If on the other hand you are trying to find out whether the Soviets are interested in an even-handed deal you do what Mr. Carter did — offer them one and stick to it. If they don't think the deal is truly even-handed, they can always counter-offer. But instead they rejected it outright, and are now waiting to see if the U. S. comes back with a better one. They calculate that they can win the negotiations because they are under less pressure for an agreement than Mr. Carter is.

They may be right, unless Mr. Carter gets a good grip on both his staff and his courage. For the "miscalculation" stories show again the kind of logic that has been so prevalent on the American side of the negotiations: If the Russians rebuff our offers, there must be something wrong with our offers. Perish the thought that there is something wrong with the Russians — The Wall Street Journal

Perish the thought, indeed.

President Carter is, we hope, a product of the farming industry that has developed a long line of horse traders, fellows who know you have to ask more to get the rightful value. There's haggling to be done before the trade is consumated and you never admit, even after transaction is completed, that you got the best of the deal.

SURE, THE RUSSIANS want to forge ahead. They want to lead the race and it's hard to believe their intentions aren't sinister. They know and we know they were never in danger from this country when we had an absolute monopoly on the H-bomb. The reason Russia wants to lead now is very clear — they want to be in position to call the shots and from ' ere we sit it appears they aren't far from that goa.

Hang in there, Jimmy!

STATE Capital NEWS

AUSTIN — A $528 million finance bill — most monumental achievement of the legislature to date — finally wound its way through the legislature and moved to the governor's desk.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who tagged the measure an emergency and plugged for it in both houses, applauded passage and promptly scheduled signing ceremonies this week.

The bill was deadlocked for six weeks in Senate sub-committee after Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby insisted the $674 million House version was excessive.

After Hobby engineered a compromise on a $428 million bill with a built-in inflation-adjusting mechanism to take care of future needs, new trouble developed in the Senate.

Briscoe held out for another $100 million to repair weather-damaged roads, and Hobby agreed.

Several senators, including A. R. Schwartz of Galveston and Lloyd Doggett of Austin, who weren't too keen on the highway department getting first crack at a big bundle of money, waged a battle against the compromise in the Senate. Schwartz was particularly irate about addition of the last $100 million.

Schwartz and Doggett claimed commitment of the additional revenue to highways killed a $258 million tax cut passed by the House. Hobby agreed there is now no chance for elimination of the state sales tax in utility bills, but Briscoe insisted the levy can still be taken off.

Over a 20 year period, the compromise bill will provide more money for highway building than the original House version. Briscoe had requested about $825 million in his initial recommendations for additional highway funding.

Session Speeding

The legislature, following an Easter recess, shifted gears for the final month and a half of the 65th session.

Major business — including school finance legislation and a $15.6 billion general appropriations bill for 1978-79 — awaited the House this week. The governor tagged school finance as an emergency.

The Senate may see its Finance Committee's budget bill next week and its Education Committee's school funding proposals soon thereafter.

Presiding officers of both houses and Gov. Briscoe are optimistic over chances for an early windup of the session. But most observers conclude that, realistically, legislators aren't likely to adjourn before the 140-day deadline at the end of May.

Presiding officers and the governor are convinced accomplishments will be significant.

Malpractice Debate Set

The Senate will begin debate on a medical malpractice compromise bill April 18.

The Senate Jurisprudence Committee advanced the House-passed measure to the floor with no more than technical changes, postponing the big fight over amendments.

Prostitution Curbed

Legislation to increase penalties for prostitution passed the House last week.

New penalties (up to $1,000 fine and 180 days in jail in first offense) would apply to both parties to a solicitation. Another measure passed overwhelmingly by the House extends penalties to those who solicit others to engage in sex for pay.

AG Rules

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

The sales tax on residential utility bills could be wiped out without abolishing the levy on commercial users.

Home rule cities may require public officials to file financial disclosure statements on their assets and incomes.

The open records act does not require disclosure of the name of a person who lodged a complaint with another to a city animal control division.

General partners of a limited partnership operating under an assumed name must execute and file an "assumed name certificate" with the county clerk.

Courts Speak

The U.S. Supreme Court turned down appeals of two condemned murderers from Texas.

Atty. Gen. Hill called on a federal appellate court to overturn a Dallas judge's order allowing television film pool coverage of a Texas execution.

The Texas Supreme Court upheld lower court decisions that a Lufkin woman could not recover damages in the death of her husband at a hospital following administration of an anesthetic.

The State Court of Criminal Appeals ordered a new trial for a man given a life term for the slaying of a Kerr County ranch worker.

The State Supreme Court will hear an appeal by a Starr County man claiming a finance company should not be allowed to sue him for debt in Dallas courts.

Short Snorts

Final legislative approval was given a sales tax exemption for newspapers.

The House passed a bill allowing the Banking Commissioner to deny stock acquisition involving 25 per cent or more of a state bank's voting securities for specified reasons after a charter has been issued.

A bill to repeal a requirement that motorcyclists over 18 wear helmets was passed by the Senate and sent to the House.

Gov. Briscoe reappointed T. Louis Austin Jr. of Dallas, Joe LaMantia of McAllen and Fred W. Shield of San Antonio to the Texas Board of Corrections.

Public Utility Commission informed congress it will not allow any future power plants using natural gas as boiler fuel to generate electricity in Texas.

Six applications for permits to sell $18.3 million in Texas securities were filed with the State Securities Board last week.

Horticulture Notes

Special program makes for stronger pecan trees

by John Cooper
County Horticulturist

Increasing interest in pecan production has demanded the formulation of a comprehensive system for establishing new trees. With pecans, an extended time period occurs from planting until a crop can be harvested. Whether for pleasure or profit anyone planting a pecan tree wants a crop as quickly as possible. Intensified research on this problem has resulted in a carefully prescribed establishment program.

THIS PROGRAM not only brings about an earlier crop but builds a stronger, longer-lived tree that will bear more in less space. Central leader training, pinching, tip-pruning, zinc applications, nitrogen fertilization, sufficient watering and weed control are all components of this program.

As you look around at pecan trees today you see spreading branches coming off the trunk up about 3 to 6 feet. This type of growth forms a circular foliage area. As the tree gets larger and spreading the lower limbs are shaded. Shaded limbs decline in vigor and are eventually self-pruned by the tree. This spreading also takes up more room than if the tree were growing upright. What is desired is to continue one central trunk on up as high as it can be directed. Off this central leader will spring lateral limbs. These limbs will grow from the central leader at strong right angles instead of forming the weak narrow angles of spreading trees.

The pattern of limb development can be controlled but only by starting early in the tree's life. As the tree grows one shoot is encouraged to grow by "pinching" the terminal buds out of all the shoot tips except on the central leader. By restricting the growth of these shoots to 12-24 inches annually, the food and water is moved on up through to the central leader. Each tree should be pinched every 2-3 weeks for three growing seasons. Under this program the central leader may grow 36 inches or more the first growing season.

DURING THE FIRST two dormant seasons remove half of the previous year's growth on the central leader. This causes the shoot to grow rapidly the following year. At the same time this builds a larger diameter on the trunk.

Each year beginning with the third dormant season strip the lower one-third of the limbs off the tree. Stop stripping leaves off at the five foot level where the permanent limbs should begin.

From growing season four through eight you should practice tip-pruning. By removing the terminal 3 to 4 buds you will increase side branching. This will produce more fruiting surfaces while containing the size of the tree for the first ten years or so.

The success of this training program depends upon the regularity with which the other portions of the program are carried out.

Zinc is very important to get full shoot extension and leaf expansion. Consequently the total foliage area capable of feeding the tree and ultimately the nuts depends upon the avilability of zinc. Apply zinc to non-bearing trees every two weeks from April 15 to August 15. Use zinc sulfate at 2 pounds or NZN at 1¼ qt. in 100 gallons of water.

FERTILIZER is important for rapid and sustained growth. In the first year do not apply fertilizer unless the transplanted tree has recovered well and is growing fast and then only in late May. In the second year apply one lb. of ammonium sulfate to each tree on April 1, May 1 and June 1. In the third year apply three pounds on April 1 and again June 1. If more even distribution is desired some benefit may be found in applying one pound on April 1, April 15, May 1, May 15 and June 1. A regular 14 oz. to 16 oz. vegetable can measures one pound of ammonium sulfate. Each tree should be watered with one gallon per day the first year, two gallons per day the second year and three to six gallons the third year. These amounts can be applied in two applications per week.

Competition for food and water by weeds should be reduced through, hoeing, disking or herbicide use. Disking may be necessary 5-8 times a year. Three applications of herbicide annually can effectively control weeds. No mater what the method weeds should be controlled six feet in diameter the first year, 8 feet the second year and 10 feet the third year.

Each cultural treatment outlined here supports the others. Taken alone they yield only marginal success. Taken as a whole and applied as a total program growers across the state have obtained excellent results.

International House to feature art & music Tues.

On Tuesday, April 19 The International House at Southwestern University will present an International Art Show and a concert. The art show will begin at 7 p.m. and will feature art work, sculpture, etc. by the house residents.

Carol Bennett and Linda Phillips are in charge of this event.

At 8 p.m. Jim Oliver and Southwestern University's Coffee House are presenting the well-known guitarist and vocalist, Stephen Jarrard, in concert.

Mr. Jarrard appears regularly at Anderson Fair and Theodores in Houston. The concert will be held in the backyard of The International House and in case of rain will move inside.

The public is cordially invited to attend both of these programs.

There is no admission charge for either.

Charles G. Heyne

Charles G. Heyne, age 76, of Houston and Crockett died Wednesday, April 13, 1977.

Mr. Heyne was born April 3, 1901 in Houston. He was a graduate and recipient of Honorary Doctorate Humane Letters degree from Southwestern University; a member of the First United Methodist Church in Crockett; founder and Chairman of the Board of Charles G. Heyne Company, Inc.; Director of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo; Director of the First Allied National Bank in Crockett and member of the River Oaks and Spring Creek Country Clubs.

He was buried in Houston at Forest Park Lawndale Cemetery with Dr. Charles L. Allen officiating.

Honorary pallbearers included Sam V. Stone and Durwood Fleming of Georgetown.

Summer jobs help offered

A courtesy program to assist high school and college students in finding summer work will be conducted in Austin Monday, May 16-Friday, July 1.

Summer job listings from Austin area employers will be posted on a central bulletin board in the offices of Snelling and Snelling Employment Service in Hancock Center, just west of Interstate Highway 35 in north Austin.

Students will be invited to visit the offices Monday through Friday of each week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Each student will receive a courtesy copy of the booklet, "Finding Summer Employment", which lists advice and useful suggestions on how to prepare and apply for a job.

Newcomers preparing for May 6 style show

Plans for the popular annual Style Show, presented by Dor-Rin's of Lakeaire Shopping Center and the Newcomers Club are already being planned by the Georgetown club.

This is a very exciting event that we've all been anticipating. The latest styles for spring and summer will be presented at a seated luncheon on May 6 at 12 noon at the Southwestern Faculty Lounge in the Commons.

Tickets are available at Alexander-Bailey Furniture at $4 per person.

All you working ladies should be able to attend, since it will take place during the noon hour. This will be the last Newcomer meeting for this school year. Next year's officers will be presented at the luncheon.

Everyone is invited to attend this special program.

Mickan is Jr. Rotarian

Tim Mickan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mickan, has been selected Junior Rotarian by the Georgetown Rotary Club for the month of April. Tim is a senior at Georgetown High School.

Tim played football his entire high school career. He was named Most Valuable Defensive Player last year by his teammates, and this year was captain of the team. He was also named All-District Linebacker, All-District Honorable Mention Guard, and All-Williamson County Linebacker. Baseball has also been a favorite of his. He has been on the baseball team since his sophomore year and named All Super-Centex Honorable Mention last year. Tim played basketball as a freshman.

Tim has been a class Representative on the Student Council since his freshman year. He was elected to the National Honor Society his junior year. He was a member of the Radio Club last year and was elected Honor Junior by last year's graduating class. Tim was elected by the entire high school student body recently as a Mr. G. H. S. Nominee, an election entitled to only four senior boys.

Outside of his school activities, Tim is active also in his church, Zion Lutheran at Walburg, as well as its youth organization where he serves as President. After graduation Tim will attend college but is undecided at this time because of athletic scholarships being offered to him which school he will choose.

Xi Xi Nu invites 2 for April

Pattielu Almquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Almquist Jr., and Jennifer Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Hazella Thomas, have been selected guests of honor for the Xi Xi Nu Sorority of Beta Sigma Phi. Both girls are seniors at Georgetown High School.

Pattie played basketball her sophomore and junior years, was manager for the track team her freshman and sophomore years, and was on the volleyball team since her freshman year, serving as captain her freshman and sophomore years. She has been a member of F.F.A. for four years, and was the first girl from Georgetown to receive the Lone Star Farmer Degree. She serves F.F.A. this year as reporter.

Pattie was a member of the Pep Squad for three years, serving as Secretary her sophomore year and 3rd vice-president her junior year. This year she is class treasurer, student council secretary and was elected to the National Honor Society.

Pattie is a member of the Rainbow Girls and has held the office of Worthy Advisor and received the service award of Grand Cross of Colors. She is also very active in Young Life and First United Methodist Church.

After graduation, Pattie will attend Tarleton State University to major in Physical Education with a minor in Biology.

Jennifer was on the girl's basketball team her sophomore and junior years, track team her freshman year and has been on the volleyball team since her freshman year. She was a member of F.H.A. her freshman and sophomore years and a member of the Pep Squad since her freshman year.

She is employed by Dixie Cream Donut Shop through her high school menbership in the Home Economics Cooperative Education program.

Outside of her school activities, Jennifer enjoys playing tennis and participating in the activities of her church. She will attend college next fall to study in the field of child development.

April 30 sales tax deadline

Retail merchants and other sales tax permit holders are being asked to put a red circle around the date April 30 on their calendars. That's the deadline for filing quarterly sales tax reports with the State Comptroller's office.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock urges permit holders to contact the nearest Comptroller's Field Office or call the toll-free tax information number (1-800-252-5555) if they have any question about their returns.

"Failure to meet that deadline can result in penalties for the permit holder," Bullock reminded.

VA van to visit G'town

Information and counseling services for area veterans and their dependents will be available from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday when a van manned by two U. S. Veterans Administration Benefits Counselors sets up shop on the south side of the Williamson County Courthouse square in Georgetown.

Veterans will have an opportunity to talk to VA representatives about educationa programs, employment, job training, home loans, medical benefits, disability compensation, pensions, life insurance, death benefits, and other veterans' benefits.

Leander trustee, newspaper sued for defamation

Three Leander residents have filed a $1 million defamation of character suit against an area newspaper and one member of the Leander school board.

The three plaintiffs, Joe Ketscher, Cecil Reid and Ruth Poole, have all been active in the Leander Taxpayer's League, a conservative group that has been influential in school board politics.

THE SUIT stems from a letter to the editor written by school board member David Kirkland and printed in the March 31 edition of the Hill Country News.

Co-defendants named in the suit are Bluebonnet Publishing, Inc., owner of the newspaper; publisher Joan Puckett; and Kirkland.

THE PLAINTIFFS claim that the letter was a "concerted, intentional and malicious act. . . timed and structured to sacrifice the reputations of the plaintiffs. . ."

The letter charges Reid, Kutscher and Poole with ". . . responsibility for the disruption of the district, the total lack of quality education, programing, facilities and planning. . ."

The letter also accused the three of personal profiteering at the expense of education in the district.

KIRKLAND also said in the letter that, "The actions of their board lead me to suspect that their motive is the dissolution of the LISD."

Until the election two weeks ago, 4 of the 7 members on the Leander school board were supported by the Leander Taypayer's League.

HOWEVER, candidates supported by the league were defeated by large majorities in all three positions in the April 2 election, including incumbent Willie Todd.

The election indicated voter disapproval of the previous majority.

Lopez ends helicopter training class

Marine Private First Class Mario Lopez, whose wife Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Santos Pina of Route 1, Box 395A, Leander, has completed the Basic Helicopter Course.

The six-week course was conducted at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Millington, Tenn. Students received instruction on the operation of helicopters and studied mechanic training, the theory of rotary-winged flight and power plant principles. In addition, Lopez underwent five days of practical application on transmission systems, flight controls and general helicopter maintenance.

He joined the Marine Corps in December 1976.

Small firms workshop set

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

This is the weekend for our big bi-annual Arts and Craft Fair, and Main Street will be buzzing with activity. Just in case some of you still don't know, the Arts and Craft Fair is being held on Liberty Hill Square in the covered booths which are located conveniently near the temporary site of our sculptures. We hope everyone who hasn't already done so will make plans to get to the fair before the day is over.

While you are in town you might be interested in going by the newly-opened Horne and Chesley Art Gallery located in the Loft upstairs over The Theatre and The Sweet Shoppe. They will be having their informal opening and will have several pieces of sculpture on display, including some by Harry Noodrhoek of Italy. Come out and make a day seeing all of the interesting sites in downtown Liberty Hill. The Arts and Craft Fair will be in progress from 11 a.m. until dark Saturday so you will have plenty of time to see it all!

The Beginner Band and the Panther Band will present their formal "Spring Concert" at the PTA meeting which will be held on Monday evening, April 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the school. The agenda for the meeting will include the election of officers for the coming year, and the finalizing of plans for the upcoming Spring Carnival, which will be sponsored by the PTA.

The PTA Spring Carnival will be held on the football field and the school cafeteria with many exciting activities including bingo, a country store, a dunk tank, a cake walk, a balloon clown, a hay ride and many other things.

There will also be a dinner of barbecued chicken, beans, potato salad and all the trimmings served from 5:30 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. Bingo and a dance will be held on the tennis courts from 8 p. m. until 11 p.m.

Donations for the country store are needed, including cakes, wieners, buns, ground beef, cheese, onions, tomatoes, lettuce, beans and hot dog sauce — plants are also needed for the country store. All donations will be greatly appreciated and volunteer workers are needed to man the booths. Anyone who can work, even if just for an hour, should contact Hazel Williams or Rhanae Ziller.

In a rematch between Liberty Hill and Marble Falls the Panthers again won by a 2 run margin edging Marble Falls by 7-5. Donnie Johnson, who is now 3-3 for the year, was the winning pitcher. The Panthers scored 4 runs in their first time at bat. Eddie Brewster got a single, Donnie Johnson hit a double, as did Robert Stephens, and Don Vickers got a walk. These coupled with an error by Marble Falls enabled the Panthers to take a lead which they never relinquished. Later in the game Robert Stephens got a triple, Joe Lopez, David Hernandez and Donnie Johnson hit singles, and Don Vickers got a double.

Donnie Johnson struck out 5 batters while allowing only 5 hits to keep Marble Falls from getting things going.

Lois Foust is now at home after a recent hospitalization in the Sheppard Memorial Hospital in Burnet. She has asked us to thank everyone for the cards, flowers and visits she received during her stay in the hospital. Mrs. Foust will be glad to see any of her friends who can come by to visit.

At the time of this writing Genevive Mears was in Intensive Care after her heart surgery in the Victoria Hospital. After the surgery the doctors were pleased with her condition, her mother, Mrs. Lyda Whitted reports.

Our community suffered a great loss last Tuesday when our beloved Constable Lee Hays passed away. Each time this good man came by to visit he always left me feeling better. I feel that he rendered a great service to our community during his term as Constable, and he will be sorely missed by his family and his many friends. Mr. Hays was a longtime resident of our town. He and his family were my friends. I am glad that he came our way.

Every man comes through this world only once, and it is always good for each to make a contribution to his fellow man so that people will remember him for the good he did. Surely, it isn't necessarily true that, "The evil men do lives after them, but the good is often interred with their bones!"

Pirates to battle East Texans following split with Trinity

Southwestern University was scheduled to try to keep its conference hopes alive in Georgetown Friday and Saturday in a three game series with East Texas Baptist College.

A single game was slated for Georgetown's San Gabriel Park at 3 p.m. Friday and a doubleheader will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday on the same field.

THE EASTEXANS had a 16-1 record coming into conference play three weeks ago but lost two of three against St. Edward's and now find themsleves in virtually the same position as Southwestern in the conference standings — looking up to St. Mary's perfect 6-0 league record. ETBC has a 6-3 conference slate and Southwestern stands at 3-3.

Coach Jim Mallon planned to start Waco freshman lefthander James Limmer against ETBC Friday and Wharton senior Steve Wendtland in the first game Saturday.

Meanwhile the Pirates moved past the 30-games-won mark, the fifth year in a row, as they split a double-header with Trinity University in Georgetown Tuesday and discovered that two other wins had been added to their slate as Hardin-Simmons had forfeited two of its games earlier in the season because of an ineligible player.

TRINITY AND SOUTHWESTERN split a doubleheader with the Tigers winning the opener 5-2 and Southwestern taking the second game 9-1. SU now has a season record of 31-13.

Trinity pitcher Pat Walsh handcuffed the Bucs in the first game, allowing only six scattered hits while striking out eight and walking none.

Southwestern, on the other hand, allowed four unearned runs and five stolen bases in the first game as Kim Mason pitched the first five innings and Ricky Gravens the final two. Kenny Wenzel scored both Pirate runs with a home run in the third inning and with a run in the sixth on a Trinity error while Tim Reig had three singles in three times at bat.

In the second game the Pirate bats started connecting with three home runs including a grand slammer by Bruce Fell, a two run shot by Jim Miller, and Joe Farr's sixth homer of the season.

EQUALLY AS IMPRESSIVE was the pitching of Wendtland who allowed only two hits and one run while striking out four and walking two in going the distance.

The blond right-hander now has a 6-0 record and the top earned run average on the team at 1.62. He has allowed 25 hits in 39 innings. On top of that, he leads the team batting average at .444 as a pinch hitter.

Tim Reig got another hit in two times at bat to end up four-for-five for the day while Farr and Fell each had two-for-three performances including their homers and Frank Rodrigues hit a single and double in his three at-bats.

Farr now has 50 hits for the season and a chance at All American Kenny Cmerek's record of 65 hits for a Southwestern season with nine games remaining.

Two juco roundballers sign with Southwestern

Two junior college players have signed letters of intent to play basketball at Southwestern University, Coach John Edwards announced this week.

THE TWO are Lester Hahn of Austin, who played this year for Concordia College, and Adrian Knapper of Merrero, La., who played for Cooke County Junior College.

Hahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hahn of 5506 Tipton Drive in Austin, is a 6-5, 195-lb. forward-center who was named "All Europe" while in high school.

He plans to major in biology at Southwestern.

KNAPPER, a 6-0 guard, was the "Freshman of the Year" at Cooke County J. C. where he scored 12 points per game. He also received the "Outstanding Citizenship Award" while at Cooke County, and was named "Most Inspirational" and "Best Defensive Player" in his senior year in high school. Knapper will major in psychology at Southwestern.

"These two young men show promise not only on the basketball court but in the classroom. We're proud that they are coming to Southwestern," Edwards said.

Southwestern had its first winning season in several years as the Pirates won 14 and lost 11.

Buc swimmers win eight events at Nacogdoches

Southwestern University's swimming team won eight events and placed in nine others in a recent meet in Nacogdoches with host Stephen F. Austin State University and Baylor University.

"IF WE HAD some more on the team I believe we could have won the meet," said student swimmer-coach Karl Scholl. "As it was, I think we did great."

The Pirate swimmers have organized on their own, trained themselves, entered meets on their own initiative, and are looking for some more competition.

Southwestern has a heated indoor pool in its new Sid. W. Richardson Physical Education Center to go along with its outdoor pool, and interest in competitive swimming and diving has doubled as the new facilities have been added.

The Pirate men took a first in the 200 yard medley relay and a second in the 200-yd. freestyle relay with Scholl, Mark Howell, Eric Perkins and Phil Bullard in the medley and Scholl, Howell, Bullard and Scott Coulter in the free-style event.

THE WOMEN did not have enough team members for the relays but won several individual events with Elaine Carleton taking first in the 200-yd. freestyle, the 100-yd. freestyle and the 50-yd. freestyle and third in the 50-yd. breaststroke. Aubra Frazier took second places in the 50-yd. butterfly and the 500-yd. freestyle and third in the 200-yd. individual medley and the 100-yd freestyle.

Southwestern's men who won or placed individually included Bullard, first in the 50-yd. freestyle; Perkins, first in the 100-yd. freestyle and first in the 500-yd. freestyle; Scholl, second in the 200-yd. individual medley; Coulter, third in the 50-yd. freestyle and third in the 100-yd. breaststroke; and Howell, first in the 100-yd. backstroke.

LINKS LEADERS — Jan Wakefield and Bobby Newburg of Georgetown High School each earned a trip to the University Interscholastic League's regional high school golf competition in Corpus Christi when they beat out strong competition for top spots in the UIL's Dist. 12AAA girls and boys tournaments during the past two weeks. Bobby, a senior, posted the best score in the boys' competition last Monday and Tuesday and will visit Corpus April 28-29. Jan, a sophomore, shot the second best round in the girls tourney April 4-5; she will visit the Gulf Coast city Thursday and Friday. Both could go on to the state championships in Austin next month if they do well in regional competition. Overall, GHS' girls team finished third in the district tourney, just missing a team trip to Corpus, while the boys ended up sixth.

Heartbreaking results brought back by GHS Girls' Tennis Team

The Georgetown High School Girls' Tennis team made the trip to Taylor on Tuesday and Wednesday to participate in the District 12 AAA Tennis Tournament. The girls played hard and well but after the points were counted the numbers showed some heartbreaking results.

In varsity girls' singles, Monica Schroeder finished fourth. She beat the No. 3 seed, Ellen Bardin, from Westlake 3-6, 6-4, 7-5 before loosing to Laurie Pasemann on Taylor in the semi-finals.

ALISON CHAPMAN also played well in varsity singles. She defeated Cindy Chapman of Lockhart 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. Then she lost 6-1 to Sally Bowman of Westlake, who easily won the tournament, loosing only three games during the two days of play.

Cindy Howry and Amanda Mashburn lost an extremely close semifinal varsity doubles match to Taylor 7-5, 7-5. They then went on to take third place over team members, Nancy Magness and Sandra Busby 6-2, 6-3.

Fourth place in varsity doubles went to Nancy and Sandra. Tennis Coach Mike Clardy praised these two saying they had greatly improved during the year and were one of the up and coming teams in the district.

JUNIOR VARSITY matches were also close, but the Georgetown girls could not seem to come out on top.

Laurie MacEwan took second place in J-V singles, loosing to Patty Ruzicka of Taylor 6-2, 6-3. Teammate Kathie Phillips took fourth in J-V singles.

In junior varsity doubles, Cathy Boydston and Penny Pierce placed third, defeating O'Neal and Hutchison of Round Rock 6-4, 6-3.

TERESA RAMEY and Susan Hilgeman lost their doubles match to the No. 1 seed team from Taylor in the second round.

When asked about this string of defeats on top of such an outstanding winning season, Coach Clardy told the SUN that the girls played well and that bad breaks at crucial times worked against them.

"They had a good season overall," Clardy added. "These girls worked hard all year. They had a good attitude and showed a lot of improvement through the season. I have a very positive outlook for our chances next year."

He concluded by praising graduating seniors, Monica Schroeder and Cindy Howry, for their leadership and winning attitude.

District tennis tourney on tap for GHS courts

The District 12 AAA Boys' Tennis Tournament will be held in Georgetown on Monday and Tuesday at the high school tennis courts.

Tournament play will begin at 9 a.m. on Monday and will last until 3:30 or 4 p.m., with two rounds of varsity and two rounds of junior varsity play on the roster: Tuesday the semi-finals matches will begin at 10 a.m. The public is encouraged to come out to support the Georgetown players.

In varsity boys' singles, Georgetown's Dick Suh is No. 2 seed. He will be paired against Kelly Whitis of Lampasas in the first round of play at 9 a.m. on April 18.

Mark Edwards, another GHS singles player, will be up against Jason Wilcox, No. 4 seed from Belton, in the first round.

Georgetown varsity boys' doubles teams will play at 10:15 a.m. on Monday. The No. 3 seed Kenny Hibbs and David Hays will play DuBoise and Beltran of Round Rock. GHSers Pat Beggs and Jay Phillips will also be on the courts at that time, facing Phillips and Bible from Lampasas.

Junior varsity singles player David Wolf is No. 4 seed in the tournament. He will face Tony Arreola of Del Valle on the school courts at 10:15 a.m.

Doubles teams in the junior varsity division will play at 2:15 p.m. Jim Cardwell and Clarke Snell, No. 1 seeds from Georgetown and Jay Barksdale and Tim Magness, GHS No. 2 seeds, will be on the courts for afternoon play.

Spectators are invited to attend the matches. There is no admission charge and the players would appreciate some friendly faces cheering them on to victory.

Gretchen Peterson to play this weekend in national piano contest

FORT WORTH — Gretchen Peterson of 904 East University Avenue in Georgetown has qualified as a contestant in the Texas Girls' Choir 12th Annual National Piano Contest April 16 and 17.

Pianists will be competing for $425 in cash awards plus trophies and ribbons during the contest at the Texas Girls' Choir building, 4449 Camp Bowie Blvd. in Fort Worth.

THE WINNER will appear as a guest soloist at the Texas Girls' Choir 15th anniversary spring concert at 8 p.m. May 7 in the Tarrant County Convention Center Theater. She also will receive $250 and a trophy.

Other awards will be $100 and a trophy for second place, $50 and a trophy for third place, $25 and a ribbon for fourth place, and a ribbon for fifth place.

Residents of eighteen Texas cities — Fort Worth, Arlington, Bedford, Dallas, Rhome, Grand Prairie, Denton, Commerce, Richardson, Duncanville, San Angelo, Celina, Fort Stockton, Los Fresnos, College Station, Georgetown, Temple, and Spring — are entering the two-day piano contest.

REPERTOIRE for the competition will include one number from the baroque, classical, romantic and contemporary periods and must be original piano music instead of arrangements.

All music must be memorized and contestants will be judged on technique, interpretation, stage presence, rhythm, musicianship, memorization, phrasing, pedaling, tone quality and impression of total performance.

Preliminary auditions will be played from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Saturday, April 16. Final auditions will begin at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, April 17. The public is invited to attend the piano contest.

MRS. T. SMITH McCORKLE, chairman, Harris Cavender, Lee Henrichs and Dr. Isabel Scionti will serve as judges for the contest.

CAN YOU IDENTIFY?

The group of men pictured above in front of H. Burkhardt's Shop south of the Square are obviously gathered for some special occasion. Can a reader tell us what and who some of the men and boys are? Note the wheelbarrows, one with J. B. or J. R. Salyer on it, flags and a large crum.

A multi-media exhibit of paintings, drawings, sculpture and jewelry by Robin S. Poerschke of Houston will be on view in the Gallery of the Alma Thomas Fine Arts Center at Southwestern University through April 25.

A reception on Sunday, April 17, at 2:30 p.m. in the Gallery officially opens the exhibit of 55 works by Ms. Poerschke. The public is invited to attend and vist with the artist.

A CANDIDATE for graduation in May from the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University, Poerschke will be the recipient of the bachelor of fine arts degree with a major in art. She has been studying with members of the art faculty, including Guss Farmer, David Everett and Claude Kennard. She plans to do graduate study at the University of Texas at Austin next fall.

Active in campus affairs, Poerschke is a member of Cardinal Key, Women's Recreation Association, Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and student representative from the art department to the fine arts faculty meetings.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Poerschke, 27 Valley Forge in Houston.

LORRIE TONN, fifth grader, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Tonn, and one of the Sunday Sun's bright "Little Merchants." Lorrie says she likes school, especially math, and outdoor sports. She is on the Noon Lion's Club Little League softball team, which had its first practice session of the spring this week.

County will consider constable's salaries

A PUBLIC HEARING will be held at Monday's county commissioners meeting to discuss raising salaries and/or increasing mileage payments to full time county constables.

Last Monday Constable Charles Fuller requested an increase in salary, and Commissioner Raymond Rister said he thought the county should consider paying full time constables at the same rate of pay as deputy sheriffs.

Commissioners are also scheduled to appoint a constable in Precinct No. 3. The position became vacant when Constable Lee Hays of Liberty Hill died last Tuesday.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, commissioners will consider:

- Deficiencies in the jail facility outlined in a recent study by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.
- Applications for the position of County Emergency Medical Services director. The job was left vacant by the resignation of James Simonson effective last week.
- Liability insurance for county employees.
- The final signing of the Round Rock ambulance contract.

Plenty planned for state 4-H'ers

THERE'S PLENTY in store for Texas 4-H members this year, says Jeannine Callahan, a 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Beginning in late April, 4-H representatives go to the nation's capital to attend the National 4-H Conference. At this time members can make major program recommendations for the 4-H program.

MORE 4-H'ers can visit Washington, D.C., in June and July for the National Citizenship Short Course and Heritage Tour. The youth can visit numerous historical sites and also have an opportunity to visit their congressmen.

Other 4-H'ers in Texas begin the summer months with Texas 4-H Roundup. More than 1,200 4-H'ers statewide come to the campus of Texas A&M University to meet new friends and show off their skills in more than 40 project areas — from rifle safety and public speaking to horse judging and child development. Everyone at Roundup is a winner, contends Miss Callahan.

July is time for the annual Texas 4-H Congress. This year 4-H'ers will gather in Corpus Christi for the week-long event to study "Oceans of Opportunity." Activities will include tours, exhibits, tasting festivals, music, dance and much more.

THE SUMMER is also an ideal time to study ecology, go on nature hikes, and enjoy water sports and lots of other exciting activities. The summer camping program at the Texas 4-H Center provides for all of this and more, adds Miss Callahan. Equipped with the latest in dining and sleeping facilities, the Center overlooks beautiful Lake Brownwood on a 78-acre site.

Fall brings record books — an activity in which most 4-H'ers are involved to learn record keeping, evaluate goals, and measure accomplishments.

THE STATE FAIR of Texas in October helps 4-H'ers celebrate fall with Rural Youth Day; that means free entrance for all 4-H'ers to the fairgrounds in Dallas.

For one week in October, 4-H'ers celebrate National 4-H Week. Parades, floats, festivals, radio and TV appearances, and exhibits all help to spread the news about the largest youth organization in the nation.

THROUGHOUT the year 4-H'ers take part in club meetings, projects of their choice, committee work, and other local activities to plan and carry out programs of interest to them.

4-H is fun and learning. If you are between 9 and 19 years, you can join 4-H and have the time of your life, contends Miss Callahan. For details, contact your county Extension office.

Ralph Yarborough to speak at SU Wed.

Former U. S. Senator Ralph Yarborough will speak at Southwestern University at noon Wednesday, April 20, to Southwestern's Political Science Society.

The public is invited to the informal meeting in the University Commons. Visitors are invited to go through the cafeteria line or bring their own lunch and bring their trays upstairs.

Yarborough, who served in the senate from 1957-71, will be speaking on his career in government and answering questions from the floor.

Yarborough's life has been marked by other periods of public service. From 1931-34 he served as assistant attorney general of Texas and as a state district judge in Austin from 1936-40. He served in the Armed Forces during World War II. Recently, he served as a member of the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission.

During his Senate career, he was a member of several sub-committees. Among these were the education sub-committee, the health sub-committee, and the veterans sub-committee. He chaired the veterans sub-committee for 11 of his 13 years in the Senate.

Yarborough considers his work with education legislation to be his principal activity while in the Senate. He was author or co-author of all five congressional laws under which money was voted to aid students in going to college. These include the National Defense Education Loan Funds of 1958, the work study program, the Cold War GI Bill, the Opportunity Grants, and the Insured Loans for middle income students.

SU program on bluegrass music, Wed.

A program on "Country Gospel Music: A Theology of the People" will be presented at Southwestern University Wednesday, April 20.

The Reverend Jay Hardy will present the lecture and tape recordings of Bluegrass gospel music at 7:30 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge of Bishops Memorial Union at Southwestern.

Hardy is an honor graduate of Southwestern (1973) and has received a master of divinity degree from Candler School of Theology at Emory University in Atlanta.

Hardy had a recent article in the magazine 1977 Pickin' on the subject "The Beginning of Bluegrass Gospel Music."

Any interested person is invited to attend. Admission is free.

Mackey in National Week operation

Navy Radioman First Class L. C. Mackey, son of Hosea Mackey of 309 Oak St. in Taylor, participated in the U. S. Sixth Fleet operation "National Week XXII."

He is a crewmember aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Farragut, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

"National Week XXII" was an eight-day exercise involving more than 30 Sixth Fleet ships, 18 aircraft squadrons and a Marine battalion landing team. The exercise included simulated combat operations, emphasizing antisubmarine and air defense, amphibious warfare and logistics support elements at sea. The exercise took place in the Tyrrhenian and Ionian Seas, near Sicily.

Additionally, he and his fellow shipmates had the opportunity to visit Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia during a six-day port visit.

Donald Pleasence: deflated on film

I like to tackle any part that's different from the ones I've done before," says actor Donald Pleasence, who plays a dirt farmer with aspirations to be a rodeo promoter in "Goldenrod," a special airing April 20 over CBS.

"Film work is different from the theatre in one respect," notes Pleasence. "In the theatre you do a performance and it's done. But movies follow you around for the rest of your life!"

Asked if he made a habit of watching himself on the screen, his reply was instant:

"Once I've done the work, I'm restless to move on to the next project. The trouble is, I have this utterly absurd image of myself as being tall, possessing sterling blue eyes and cracking good looks, but on the screen comes this little, bald headed creep. Very unsettling."

A man with a quick, agile sense of humor, Pleasence admits to having a preference for comedy parts.

"I would certainly consider doing a television series," he says, "depending on what I was asked to do. When they first brought 'Steptoe and Son' to American television from England, and renamed it 'Sanford and Son,' I was considered for the role of the owner of the junkyard.

"In 'Goldenrod,' I had the greatest fun inventing things to flesh out the part of this crazy dirt farmer. I get to drive a big white car with a horn that blares out the wildest trumpet fanfare you ever heard."

Currently, Pleasence is working on a theatrical release called "Telefon."

"It's just a thriller," he chuckles. "Charles Bronson is in it and I'm just a simple little guy who tries to blow up America. Bronson gets to break my neck in the end of the picture. I fare a little better in 'Goldenrod.' I do change horses in midstream and become a rodeo promoter.

"How's that for a happy ending?"

"How can I spend so much time reminiscing? Easy. Because of the duck I became interested in going to the race track and now I spend too much free time there. Do you remember the most famous duck on TV?"

Harris, now playing first trumpet in Doc Severinsen's Tonight Show orchestra, was one of the original musicians who played for the radio and TV versions of Groucho Marx's You Bet Your Life. In fact it was Maurie who played the musical interlude -- it's heard at the beginning of each race at the track -- whenever someone said the secret word, and the duck came down.

"It was a lot of fun working on that show," Maurie recalled. "First the band was led by Jerry Fielding, then Jack Meakin. Groucho would always make remarks about the guys in the band, it was always 'Do you have to. . .' or 'Why do you have to. . .' but it was only for laughs. Because I played the strains that you hear at the races, I began to go out to the track and now I spend too much time there. All because of a duck."

CLAUDE AKINS, as Det. Lt. Stoney Huff, has his hands full at home on the farm with a lost calf, before he has to go onto even tougher work tracking down criminals in Nashville 99, over CBS, April 22.

TV Star Scene

Marlon Brando in a TV pilot? That's not as crazy as it sounds. Brando, who has always known how to use the media, is developing a pilot for a projected PBS series about the Indians of North, Central and South America. Brando will serve as executive director for the series, to be called The First Americans . . . Among those rounded up for an NBC special, "The Fabulous Fifties," are Red Skelton, Lucille Ball, Michael Landon and Dinah Shore. The documentary will feature film clips from shows that reigned in the '50s.

Richard Benjamin, who has made a career out of playing creeps, stars in an upcoming NBC pilot in another dirty role -- the commander of an outer space garbage scow. Buck Henry wrote it and it's called "Quark" . . . Getting back to the '50s, Dobie Gillis premiered in 1959, and now, 18 years later Dobie may be returning to the small screen. CBS has a pilot in the works for an updated version, starring Dwayne Hickman and Bob Denver again.

Will Sampson, who played the big Indian in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," plays a state trooper in a CBS TV-movie, "Relentless." Monte Markham co-stars as an FBI agent in this bank robbery and chase yarn . . . Jim Henson's baby, The Muppet Show, won the British Academy of Film and Television Arts as "Best Light Entertainment Programme" of 1976. Princess Anne presented the award to director Peter Harris.

Chevy Chase will bring his off-the-wall brand of humor to his first NBC special on May 5. He's assembled a line-up of guests that at best can be described as unusual: comedian Tim Conway, physical fitness freak Jack LaLanne, the singing Shapiro Sisters, psychologist Dr. Joyce Brothers, heavyweight boxers Jimmy Ellis, Ken Norton and Duane Bobick, golf pro Dave Stockton, rock band Stuff and the 12 dogs of Moore's Mongrel Revue. Norton and Bobick will appear with Chase and Conway in a boxing sketch a few days prior to their Madison Square Garden bout (set for live coverage on NBC May 11). Ellis will also appear in the sketch.

Devilish doings are in the works at two of the networks. Principal production has been completed on "The Possessed," a 90-minute NBC flick set for April 30. James Farentino plays a defrocked priest whose mission in life is to combat evil (an odd variation on his recent role of Simon Peter in "Jesus of Nazareth"). The story involves a supernatural threat to a girl's school, which is a helluva unoriginal idea if there ever was one. But with Farentino and also Joan Hackett and Claudette Nevins in the cast, maybe they'll give it some class. It's a pilot, by the way. Over at ABC, Dack Rambo, Elyssa Davalos, Dan O'Herlihy, Richard Lynch and John Harkins are starred in "Good Against Evil." The network is calling it a dramatic story of a young couple who fall in love in San Francisco and plan to marry, although a priest realizes that she is possessed by evil forces. (But can she cook?)

Peter Falk's Columbo series is back in action, resuming production with an episode featuring Theodore Bikel and Samantha Eggar, set for later in the season . . . Elsewhere, Jack Klugman, whose Quincy series spun-off from NBC Sunday Mystery Movie (home of Columbo), hated one of his scripts so much that he refused to do it. As such he appears briefly in the episode and the story works around him. Attaboy, Jack!

He just played an advisor to Pontius Pilate, he's been a Sicilian Mafioso and a hard-hat construction worker, a ball player and Joseph of the Old Testament. Now Tony Lo Bianco has moved along further and is playing a rodeo rider in "Goldenrod," the CBS special set for April 20.

"An actor is a neutral human being with many avenues," says Lo Bianco. "He must reach down inside his being and become as naked as he can, then find things to turn him into the character he is to become. I really do believe in transformation -- I must slip into the body of some other human being and become whoever he is."

TV Dial-ogue

GANGSTER -- I know that Robert Blake was in the Our Gang comedy series. What I would like to know is what part did he play? I read that he played Mickey and that that is his real name. Could you please verify this for me? Kim Pittman, Kelso, Wash.

Your information is correct. Blake did appear in several Our Gang features as Mickey. His real name is Mickey Gubitosi, the name he acted under as a child.

TROUBLE -- Whatever happened to George Maharis? I heard he got into trouble several times, but he was too good an actor to just give up show business. Do you know if he plans to ever do a series again? R. West, Van Buren, Ark.

Nothing happened to him. He recently appeared in a guest spot on Police Story and has been making the series rounds all year, as well as doing made-for-TV pictures. He did run into trouble last year for allegedly making advances at another man in a rest stop. It was apparently the second such incident. But, this has not seemed to affect his career. I don't know if he'll be offered a series soon.

DEAD MAN -- Will you please tell me if Rudy (Peter Strauss) on Rich Man, Poor Man, Book 2 is really dead, or did he just pass out? Also, is there going to be a Book 3? Cristina Cartoceti, Southbury, Conn.

Strauss passed right out of the picture. You can assume he's dead. Strauss only agreed to do one season of the series, so he would have enough of what he calls "screw-you" money to be able to do other projects. No decision has been made about a Book 3 yet.

SMITHIE -- Did Burt Reynolds play a blacksmith in Gunsmoke several years ago? I think he did. Mrs. W.N. Miller, Fiarview, Okla.

Yup, he sure did.

LITTLE LADY -- In "Little Ladies of the Night," Linda Purl played a 14 and one-half year old. I know she wasn't that young. So how old is she? Also, could you tell me some other things she's been in? J.R. Anderson, Wolcott, Conn.

Linda may have a baby face, but she's in her early 20s. She grew up in Tokyo while her father was there with Union Carbide, but soon came to New York to the theatre. Then it was off to the golden West Coast, where her first role was in Happy Days -- a part that carried on into six episodes. Her biggest TV parts were in "Little Ladies" and the two "Young Pioneers" movies. Her next role is in "Testimony of Two Men," another Taylor Caldwell novel-for-television adaptation.

'Airport '77'

Jack Lemmon gets into action

By DAN LEWIS

Jack Lemmon eased down into a club chair, lit up a cigar and offered a drink, as he sipped his own. It was the middle day in a whirlwind 72-hour publicity binge in New York for his latest film, "Airport '77," the third in a series of plane disaster flicks which started with an adaptation of Arthur Hailey's novel.

"If I didn't like this picture, I wouldn't have the guts to go out," Lemmon was saying. "I don't believe in pushing pictures that need help. I believe only in helping pictures I believe in."

In this third episode of the "Airport" series, the disaster occurs in the Bermuda Triangle. A wide-belly 747 aircraft plunges into the Carribean Sea and sinks to the bottom. It's passengers are sealed, alive, in the fusilage.

For Jack Lemmon, this is the first action film in a career in which he became the only actor in history to win coveted Academy Awards in Best Actor and Best Supporting Actor categories. His performance as Ensign Pulver in "Mr. Roberts" was rewarded with a Best Supporting Oscar, and more recently, he won the Best Actor statuette for portraying the middle-aged businessman scheming to burn down his plant for insurance in "Save the Tiger."

He was explaining now why, and how, he wound up in the "Airport" series.

"I got this call from Jennings Lang (senior vice president of Universal Pictures and executive producer of this film). Jennings starts out by telling me not to hang up, but he has this script he wants me to read. I ask what it's about, and he tells me it's 'Airport '77'. So I hang-up."

Lemmon laughs as he recalls the incident, then adds he quickly called Lang back. Assured Lang was serious, Lemmon agreed to read the script. He liked it.

He's realistic about its appeal. "I know it's not a critic's picture," Lemmon observes, anticipating downers in their reviews. But he expects it will be a big commercial success. Large-cast, sweeping disaster films have done well at the box office and among the bevy of stars in "Airport '77" are Jimmy Stewart, Lee Grant, and Olivia de Havilland in her first Hollywood picture in years.

There is another importnt element for Lemmon. Large, successful commercial films give an actor a chance to do the small, more meaningful pictures.

"It's easier to raise money for the small, more effective films if you're coming off a smash hit," Lemmon noted. "It's an important side effect. It took us two years to get 'Save the Tiger' off the ground. No one wanted to finance it."

"Days of Wine and Roses," for which Lemmon was nominated for an Oscar, took more than a year to get off the ground.

"They begged me not to do it," Lemmon recalls. "They said a picture about a couple of drunks (Lee Remick co-starred) would never make it." Although he didn't win an Oscar for "Wine and Roses," it is regarded as one of Lemmon's finest performances.

This was a good career experience for Lemmon. Making his first appearance in an action drama proved an education. He learned the art of "instant acting."

"There is no time to develop characters in action films," Lemmon observed. "When they make this kind of film, they look for the actors who can move quickly. It was exciting for me."

"Airport '77" was directed by Jerry Jameson, a young man on his first major feature assignment.

"It took a lot of chutzpah (Yiddish expression for "nerve") to put him in the director's chair," Lemmon declared. "The kid never had done a big feature. Oh, he had directed in television, some marvelous things, and I don't mean to denegrate television. But here he is on this multi-million dollar picture and he was great."

In fact, there are a lot of new, young directors in the feature business these days, and Lemmon is one of their most ardent boosters.

"I'm getting nuts about these young directors. My next picture ("China Syndrome") has two young writers, one of whom will direct," Lemmon revealed, and, by way of confirming how new and young they are, he couldn't remember their names, and had to check a piece of notepaper in his picket on which their names were inscribed -- Mike Gray and Tom Cook. Gray is the writer-director.

Lemmon has worked with these ambitious fledlings almost exclusively in recent years. John Avildsen directed him in "Save the Tiger," and John Korte in "Alex and the Gypsy." In "Tiger," Lemmon gave his Oscar-winning performance. As for the other film, Lemmon acknowledges that "it didn't work well," but he still was impressed with Korte's work.

"Would you believe it, these young guys cut their teeth on X-pictures. Not the hard porno stuff, but things like Avildsen's 'Joe.' They've learned their craft, and don't get pushed into corners. These new directors learned from the past masters, but they're not bound by them. They don't imitate, and they don't get trapped.

"They also get help from things like the Motion Picture Academy and the American Film Institute. They get grants to make 8-minute shorts, and they know someone important is going to see it."

His own directing career is in limbo at the moment. A few years back he directed his close friend, Walter Matthau, in a nice little film titled "Kotch," and he was pleased with the result. He has no current plans to direct again, but says he would like to, eventually.

"Every actor should direct. It teaches the actor to concentrate on the whole scene, and not just interpret his own role," Lemmon contended.

JACK LEMMON: There is no time to develop characters in action films. When they make this kind of film they look for the actors who can move quickly. It was exciting for me."

CRUSHED -- I have a crush on Bruce Boxleitner who I think was the same guy who played on "How the West Was Won" and "Murder at the World Series." Could you please tell me where I could write to him? Also, do you think I would get a fan letter he wrote himself, since he isn't that popular yet? Heidi Williams, Thomasville, N.C.

Boxleitner was in both of those flicks. Your best bet in writing him is in care of How the West Was Won, ABC-TV, 4151 Prospect Ave., Los Angeles, CA. 90027. You'll be glad to know he has a good chance of being on the tube weekly next season with How the West Was Won.

THIEF -- Did Henry Winkler really steal the character of The Fonz from Sylvester Stallone? Jack Howard, Greenwood, Miss.

Winkler has said a number of times that he patterned The Fonz after a character Stallone played in "The Lords of Flatbush," which also starred Winkler. I wouldn't call it theft. Let's say imitation is the best form of flattery, or whatever that cliche is. Anyway, now that they're both stars in the Hollywood heavens, I don't suppose it matters much.

Send your questions to TV Dial-ogue, care of this newspaper.

Howry is April Tex-Anne

CINDY HOWRY

Cindy Howry, daughter of Mrs. Billy Howry, has been selected by the Georgetown Optimist Club as Young Tex-Anne for the month of April.

Cindy is a senior at Georgetown High School. She has been a very active and outstanding student and has served our school as cheerleader, band member, member of the tennis team and track team. She also played basketball her freshman year. Cindy was a member of F.H.A. her freshman year, Radio Club her freshman and junior years, and is a member of Junior Historians this year. She was elected to the National Honor Society her junior year and is a member of the Student Council this year.

Honors received by this vivacious senior have been Honor Junior for the 1975-76 Senior class, Homecoming Queen this year, Head Cheerleader and Georgetown Woman's Club Guest of Honor for the month of October.

Recently Cindy was crowned Miss G.H.S. at the High School Coronation.

After graduation Cindy plans to attend college to major in Physical Education or Physical Therapy.

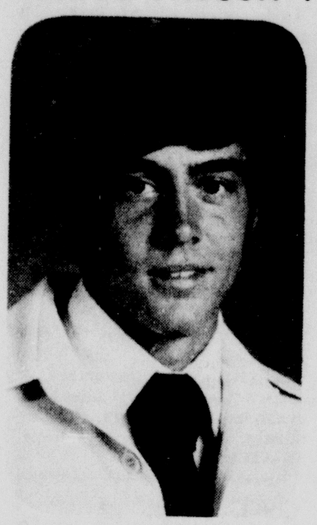
SU alumni plan party for April

A party for Southwestern University alumni who live in the Austin area will be held April 29 at the Headliner's Club in Austin at 7 p.m.

Hosts for the hamburgers-and-tacos affair will be Alumni Board president Dorothy Davidson, Tom Forbes, Mark Griffin, Stacy Langston Griffin, Jane Rogers Matthews, Russell Matthews, Joann Long Morse, Skip Morse and Ernest Nieto.

Cost will be $5 per person, and those planning to attend have been asked to RSVP during working hours to Georgetown's 863-6511 (ext. 281) or to Austin's 475-5464 (Tom Forbes' office).

Giese chosen Young Texan



DAVID GIESE

David Giese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Giese, has been selected Young Texan for the month of April by the Georgetown Optimist Club. David is a senior at Georgetown High School.

David has been a very active student. He played basketball his entire high school career, serving as captain his junior year. He was named to the Second All-District Team. He also played football his sophomore year and golf his freshman year. David was selected to the National Honor Society his junior year.

Giese has also served as Representative on the Student Council his sophomore year, Senator his junior year and he holds the office of Parlimentarian this year.

David recently was crowned Mr. G.H.S., an honor given to one senior boy by the entire high school student body. He was honored by the Georgetown Rotary Club as Junior Rotarian last January.

After graduation, David will attend Temple Junior College to start his career in criminology. He will transfer to Sam Houston State University for his degree.

Hubbard guest of Womans Club

NATALIE HUBBARD

Natalie Hubbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubbard, has been selected Guest of Honor for the month of April by the Georgetown Woman's Club. Natalie is a senior at Georgetown High School.

Natalie has been a member of the high school band since her sophomore year. She is also a Scribe for Soc'N Buskin as well as photographer for the paper staff and head photographer for the annual staff.

She won the Photography III Award in 1975 at the Trinity Journalism Workshop. She also serves as academics section editor for the annual staff.

Natalie was a member of F.H.A. for three years, serving as historian for two years. She was a member of Junior Historians her junior year and served as reporter and a member of the Spanish Club her sophomore and junior years. She entered U.I.L. spelling her freshman year and feature writing this year.

Natalie is an outstanding photographer and has served our school well. She is especially interested in photographing children, people and nature.

Natalie will continue her education in this field next fall at Austin Community College for two years and then on to a four year college for her degree.

DISCOVER 4-H

By CAROLYN BONNER & EDWARD WILKIE

EIGHT 4HERS will represent Williamson County in the District 4-H Food Show Saturday at Hancock Center in Austin.

Those from Williamson County in the senior division, 14 and up, are: Elaine Lange of Thrall, Jana Rohlack of Coupland, and Molly Crider and Edwina Adamek of Granger.

In the junior division, age 9 to 12 years old, are: Michelle Stromberg and Kristen Werchan of Hutto, Cheryl Dedeck of Georgetown, and Kara Petrus of Coupland.

These eight will compete with 120 youngsters representing a 17-county district. They are judged on their knowledge of nutrition and the food they prepare.

The judging will begin at 10 a.m. The displays will be open to the public at 12:30 p.m. with an awards program at 1 p.m.

4-HERS ARE WORKING on demonstrations to be presented April 22 at County Contests. The contests will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Hutto School. The public is invited to attend.

The 4-Hers will present 8 to 12 minute demonstrations on a wide range of subjects from horses to foods. These demonstrations are based on something they have learned in their 4-H projects.

Those winning at county will advance to District 4-H Contests to be held in Bastrop on April 30.

4-H ADULT AND YOUTH LEADERS who are interested in aquatic science projects, water sports, or 4-H record books are invited to participate in one of these three weekend workshops at the Texas 4-H Center near Brownwood on May 14 and 15, 1977.

Aquatic science workshop sessions will include aquarium culture, marine biology, and recreational information from Dr. James T. Davis, Extension Fisheries Specialist.

4-H record book training for both advanced and beginning 4-H leaders will be given by 4-H and Youth Specialists George McArthur and Martha Conch.

The water sports workshop participants will receive training in the conduct of water games, safety skills, and waterfront-management techniques needed in preparation for summer-camp activities.

Registration forms and additional details for the workshop training sessions are available from the County Extension Office, 3rd Floor, Courthouse, Georgetown (phone 863-2318).

THE GEORGETOWN 4-H CLUB has planned a Hayride for its members on April 23, from 7 - 9 p.m. Plans are to meet at the concrete slab in San Gabriel Park. Each member is to bring enough wieners and buns for himself and their guest (each club member may invite one guest). The 4-H Club will furnish the trimmings and cold drinks.

7 teacher contracts will be reconsidered in Leander Thursday

Two new trustees and one incumbent took their seats on the Leander school board Tuesday night, as a standing room only crowd showed their approval with loud applause.

IN A SURPRISING show of solidarity after the heated school board race, incumbent A. C. Bible was voted in by acclamation as the new board president.

"That was the fastest thing we have done for a year," said Bible, after the board's vote of confidence.

THE MORE THAN 65 persons attending the meeting clapped again as plaques were presented to the two members leaving the board.

Les Wilson, speaking for the board, thanked James Moore for his three years of service on the board and Willie Todd for her one year of service on the board.

Moore chose not to run for reelection, and Todd was defeated in the election by Bradford.

SCHOOL BOARD ATTORNEY James Overstreet said that he would no longer attend regular board meetings and would no longer receive the $750 a month retainer from the school district for his attendance at the meetings.

"I will continue to represent the board on an hourly basis in litigation and in hearings," said Overstreet.

The boards former policy of having their lawyer present at all meetings, and the $750 retainer fee, had been a much discussed campaign issue in the Apirl 2 election.

ALL THREE candidates who won in the election had promised to stop having the attorney present at regular meetings.

The new board set a special meeting for Thursday, April 21, at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the contracts of the seven high school teachers and staff members that were fired by the board several weeks ago.

THE TEACHER firings also became a major issue in the election, and the new board is expected to vote to reinstate the seven teachers and staff members on April 21.

PREPARING TO PRESERVE GEORGETOWN'S HERITAGE — The new Georgetown Heritage Society held its organizational meeting on Thursday night. The purpose of the organization will be "to preserve and enhance the quality of life in the Georgetown area." Restoration architect Wayne Bell spoke to the crowd who attended this meeting. After the program and business meeting, the Sun photographer caught Lynn Burnette, one of the organizers of the group who presided at this first meeting; the speaker, Wayne Bell; Clare Mashburn, an organizer, secretary for the first meeting and member of the Georgetown School Board; and City Council Member Carl Doering discussing plans for the future of the society.

SIXTH GRADERS GIVE — Sixth grade students at Northside Middle School took up a collection after the death of their classmate, Cindy Rydell, to pay for flowers for her funeral. They collected $53.95 more than they needed for this purpose, however. The group decided to give the remainder of the money to the Cancer Crusade as a memorial for Cindy. Several representatives of the class, (left to right) Delana Lands, Joe Golson and (far right) Denise Christopher presented a check to cancer drive representative Betty Parsons (second from right) on Wednesday morning.

Restoration architect addresses first Heritage Society meeting

The Georgetown Heritage Society held its organizational meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Ames-Eanes House at 1004 Church Street.

Approximately 60 persons attended the meeting to hear noted restoration architect Wayne Bell of the Austin firm of Bell, Klein and Hoffman speak on historic perservation and contemporary development. He showed some 40 slides and gave a narrative called "Look Back into the Future."

BELL IS PAST president of the Society of Architectual Historians. He teaches preservation design, preservation philosophy and building documentation at the University of Texas at Austin and also directs the Graduate Preservation Program there.

Some noted restoration projects he has directed are the Walter Tipps House in Austin, the Littlefield House at the University of Texas, Ima Hogg's Winedale properties, the Landmark Inn in Castroville and the House of the Seasons in Jefferson.

Aside from the program, the society had to get down to the business of organizing. Lynn Burnette presided at the meeting and was given permission to appoint a nominating committee and by-laws committee to get the organization rolling.

FOLLOWING THE BUSINESS meeting and program, these attending browsed through an exhibit of old photos belonging to Clara Scarbrough, Otha Ullrich, Dr. and Mrs. Van Tipton, Wanda Lancaster and the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce. There was also an exhibit of booklets, pamphlets and papers coming from the research the organizers of the society did in learning how to start such a group.

The next meeting of the Georgetown Heritage Society will be on May 19 in the Ames-Eanes House.

Speakers for this last meeting of this school year will be former Mayor Hugh Raupe and Mary Lou Watkins of Granbury. They are two of the persons who were most involved in the restoration of the Granbury Courthouse Square. The topic of their talk and slide presentation will be how they went about this task.

REMEMBER THE LADIES is the title of the book that the Georgetown Women's Political Caucus gave to the Georgetown Library this week. The Sun caught Fran Carlson of the Caucus (left) and Librarian Philpot (right) as they looked through the book. The full title of the new addition to the library shelves is Remember the Ladies, Women in America 1750-1815. Written by Linda Grant DePauw and Conover Hunt, the work is filled with pictures and includes chapters on love and marriage, motherhood, sickness and death, domesticity, women at work, women and religion, women at war, accomplished women, fashionable ladies, creative women, Presidents' ladies and liberty and equaility.

Working wives eligible for disability pay

Working wives who become disabled sometimes don't realize that they may be eligible for social security disability payments even though their husbands are working.

A wife and her children can get social security disability payments on her work record regardless of her husband's earnings—if she has worked long enough in jobs covered by social security. The children can get payments until they're 18, or 22 if they are full-time students in school and remain unmarried.

A working wife facing a long-term disability should get in touch with a social security office without delay to get information about applying for disability benefits.

Men's lib talk at SU Mon.

Dr. Warren Farrell will lead a program on "The Liberated Man" at Southwestern University on Monday April 18, at 7:30 p.m. in Bishops Memorial Union.

Farrell, 32, has traveled more than 250,000 miles to start more than 300 men's consciousness-raising groups. He is the author of "The Liberated Man — Beyond Masculinity: Freeing Men and Their Relationships with Women," and is the co-founder of MAN, the national Men's Awareness Network, and of the Men's Anthology Collective.

The program at Southwestern is sponsored by the Ideas and Issues Committee of the Student Union.

Any interested person is welcome to attend, admission-free.

San Gabriel Heights homeowners discuss problems of hi-density apartment complex

Residents of San Gabriel Heights met again this week in called meeting to discuss problems involving a Dallas developer's proposed 130-160 unit hi-density apartment complex, bordering on the east boundaries of San Gabriel homes.

Spokesperson Marie McDonald said that San Gabriel residents do not question the need for apartments in Georgetown. "There is currently a number of duplex homes being built there. We are vitally concerned with growth plans of the area, pertinent to provisions existing to serve them.

"Water is painfully inadequate for existing homes. Other city services will be strained. City schools are over-crowded. Traffic on Leander road is hazardous at peak hours. City Police are stretched thin. Fire protection is questionable with the existing water system," McDonald pointed out.

"With the City Limits already expanded to cover proposed home development areas, what will a 160 unit complex do to currently approved growth areas?" she asked.

A committee was appointed to research and correlate information to present to City Dads. Those serving are Neal Proctor, Alva Finck, Bill Putney, Hank Carver, and Tom Ardrey.

A General Meeting will again be held in the Festive Room at First National Bank, on Tuesday, May 3, at 7:30, to hear proposals of the Working Committee, and also to act on By-laws proposed by the Directors.

11 Cent Coffee Increase Ups Market Basket Survey

AUSTIN--Texas consumers paid slightly more for commodities purchased in the March market basket survey, conducted by the Texas Department of Agriculture, with the increase hitting their coffee cup rather than their overall food budget.

An increase of 11 cents for a pound of coffee was offset by lowered averages of other shopping buys, and the seventh monthly survey showed a four-cent increase of the total $19.50 basket price.

A dozen eggs, at 81 cents, dropped an average of 11 cents in the 12 Texas survey cities and helped to hold down the total food bill.

Despite some fears that citrus product prices would take a big leap following the winter freeze which destroyed most of the Florida crop, frozen orange juice increased by an average of only two cents per six oz. can, averaging 28 cents.

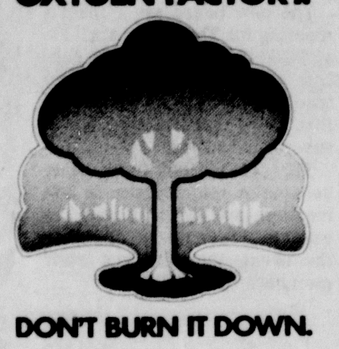
Fresh Texas citrus, now in peak supply, is also a special food bargain, with experts in the citrus industry explaining that the Texas crop, which incurred no freeze damage, is one of the best in several years.

San Antonio maintained its lead as the cheapest city of those surveyed, with its total bill of $18.12 up two cents from February. On the other hand, the McAllen-Edinburg March basket price of $20.10 though down 32 cents from February, again put it in last place as the most expensive of the 12 survey areas.

Other cities in order of their March prices and with a comparison to February totals are: Laredo, $19.15 to $18.95; Austin, $19.17 to $18.97; Abilene, $19.36 to $19.50; Tyler, $19.44 to $19.22; El Paso, $19.56 to $19.30; Corpus Christi, $19.63 to $19.68; Fort Worth, $19.63 to $19.58; Dallas, $19.71 to $19.78; Lubbock, $19.78 to $19.68; and Houston, $20.06 to $19.73.

Besides coffee, eggs and orange juice, the 17 other commodities surveyed, their average March price and comparisons with February are: one gallon one-half per cent low fat milk, $1.41 to $1.39; one gallon whole homogenized vitamin D milk, $1.64 to $1.66; one 12 oz. package individually wrapped American cheese singles, $1.30 both months; one pound margarine, 53 cents to 52 cents; 24 oz. loaf white sandwich bread, 41 cents to 42 cents; one pound whole fryer chicken, 51 cents both months; one pound regular ground beef, 78 cents to 80 cents; and one pound grain-fed round steak with bone, $1.41 to $1.42.

Also, one pound family pack pork chops, $1.22 to $1.25; 6½ oz. can light chuck tuna, 68 cents both months; one pound bacon, $1.23 to $1.22; one pound red delicious apples, 48 cents to 46 cents; 18 oz. box corn flakes, 72 cents to 71 cents; one head fresh lettuce, 45 cents to 44 cents; one pound fresh tomatoes, 71 cents to 73 cents; one pound dry pinto beans, 24 cents both months; and 49 oz. box detergent, $1.44 to $1.45.



★Cleanup Week

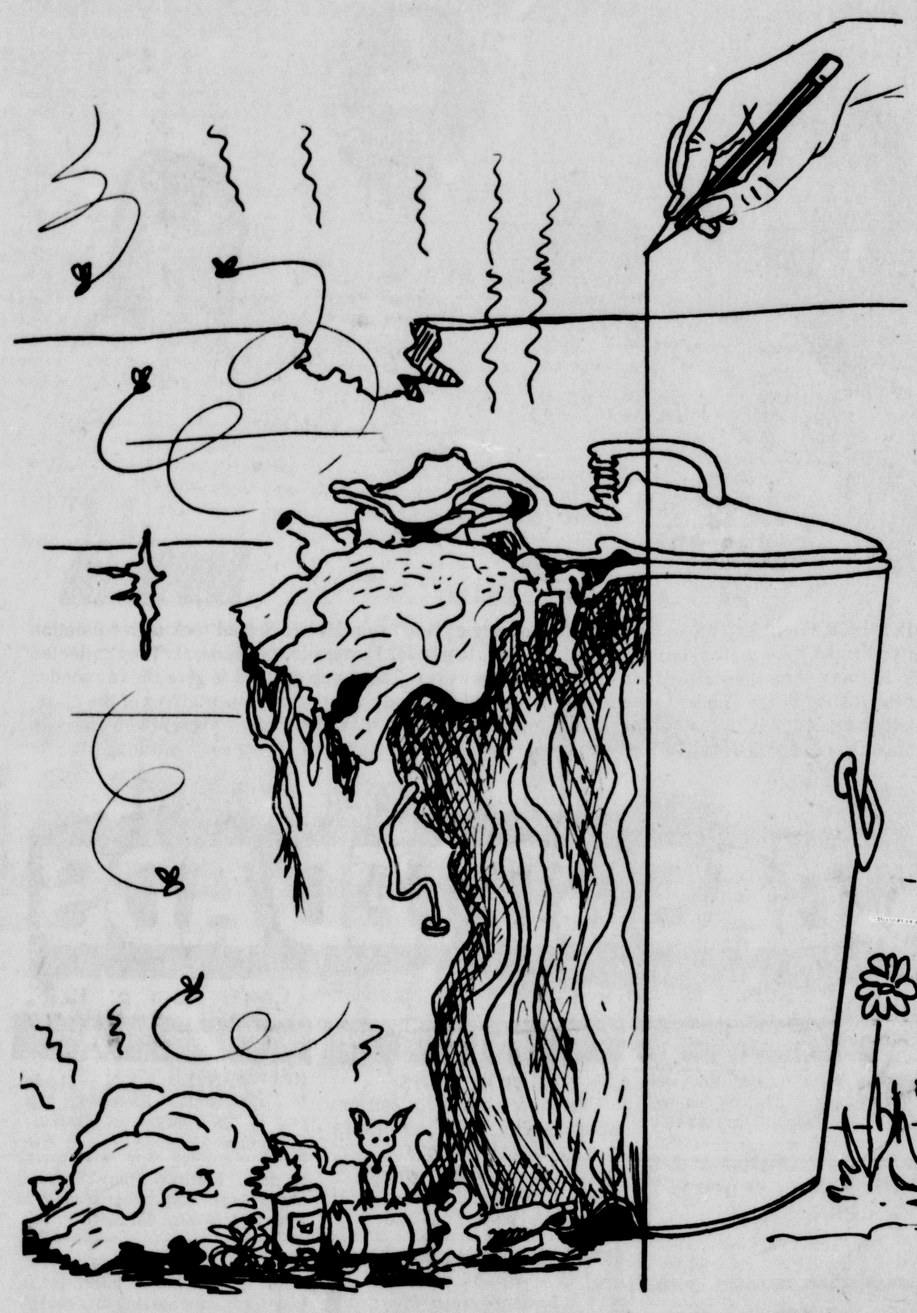
Wood said city and county crews would make constant pickups in every section of the city from before 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day, beginning Tuesday and continuing through Friday.

VOLUNTEERS from the community will be asked to assist with cleanup operations Thursday and Friday.

Those who wish to volunteer should report to the city's water plant on West 8th St. at 4 p.m. both days. They will work from just after business hours until about dark.

The Georgetown VFW Post will host a sausage dinner for volunteers after the completion of Cleanup Campaign activities Friday night.

Assisting with this year's efforts are Williamson County Commissioners Wesley Foust and Carl Lidell and Southwestern University's Phi Delta Theta fraternity.



Cleanup Campaign Week—April 18-22

Tax refunds up

Washington

The IRS says Americans are getting record-high income tax refunds this year — an average $448 so far — and more are checking off a buck or two for presidential campaign funds than did last year.

But taxpayers also are making a lot more mistakes in filling out their 1976 return — especially the so-called short form, 1040A.

Of the 83 million returns expected to be filed by Saturday's deadline, nearly 47 million had been processed as of April 1, Internal Revenue Service spokesmen said.

Of the 47 million taxpayers who have been through the mill, 39.7 million got refunds. The average amount returned has been $447.58, compared with $417.26 at the same time last year.

After all returns were counted last year, the average refunded was $426.42 — the highest ever up to that time.

New warranty rules will aid consumers

Appliance warranties should be easier to find and understand—because of new federal rules to help consumers, Mrs. Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist, says.

Federal Trade Commission rules, developed under the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, went into effect January 1.

THEY REQUIRE a company to disclose a number of facts on a product over $15 if a warranty is offered—but the law does not require warranties, the specialist explained.

Mrs. McCormack is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Among facts a company must disclose are 1) to whom the warranty is extended, 2) what it covers, 3) respective warrantor and consumer responsibilities and 4) when the warranty begins, if date is other than purchase date.

"MORE IMPORTANTLY, sellers are bound by law to make warranties available for consumer perusal at point of purchase," Mrs. McCormack noted.

—displayed in close conjunction to the warranted product,

—in a binder prominently title "Warranties" and indexed by product or warrantor (if binder is not evident, signs should indicate its location),

—on product package or container.

Also, because of the act, warranties now will be labeled "full" or "limited."

"FULL" WARRANTY means a warrantor will repair a defective product within a reasonable time, without charge — or for a product that cannot be repaired, the warrantor will give a refund or replacement.

A warranty must be labeled "limited," if there are any coverage restrictions — for instance, those that pay only part of the repair costs, such as labor.

County census tract plan to be offered Wednesday

The Williamson County Census Tract Project will reach the end of its first stage Wednesday when a proposal for establishment of 12 county tracts is submitted to the project's Executive Committee.

Committee Chairman Harry Gold has issued an invitation for the public to join local government representatives from throughout the county in reviewing the proposal, which will be submitted during a 9 a.m. meeting in the Council Room of Georgetown's City Hall, 103 W. 7th St.

INITIATED early this year, the Census Tract Project aims to generate new sources of information for local governments in Williamson County by getting the county included in the Austin Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) for the 1980 federal census.

The U. S. Census Bureau regularly assembles a vast array of incredibly detailed information about each area of SMSAs following each decade's census. This information is often useful, or even vital, for acquistion of federal grants by local governments.

But to be included within an SMSA, the area in question must establish a series of census tracts satisfactory to the Census Bureau.

The goal of the Williamson County project is to establish such a plan and submit it to the federal government by June 30.

FRED POND, a planner recently hired to develop a preliminary plan for the tracts, said late this week he would submit to the Executive Committee an outline of 12 possible tracts ranging in population from about 3,000 persons to nearly 8,000.

Census Tract Number	Size
201	5640
202	4608
203	6660
204	4368
205	4394
206	7414
207	3060
208	2962
209	3412
210	6055
211	4263
212	7788

In the course of devising the tracts plan, Pond has also delved into past, present, and possible future populations in various sections of the county.

FOR INSTANCE, he estimates Georgetown's present population at 9,627, a gain of 3,232 residents or 50.5 percent since the 1970 census; Round Rock at 8,181, a gain of 5,370 or 191 percent; and Taylor at 12,429, a gain of 2,813 or 29.2 percent.

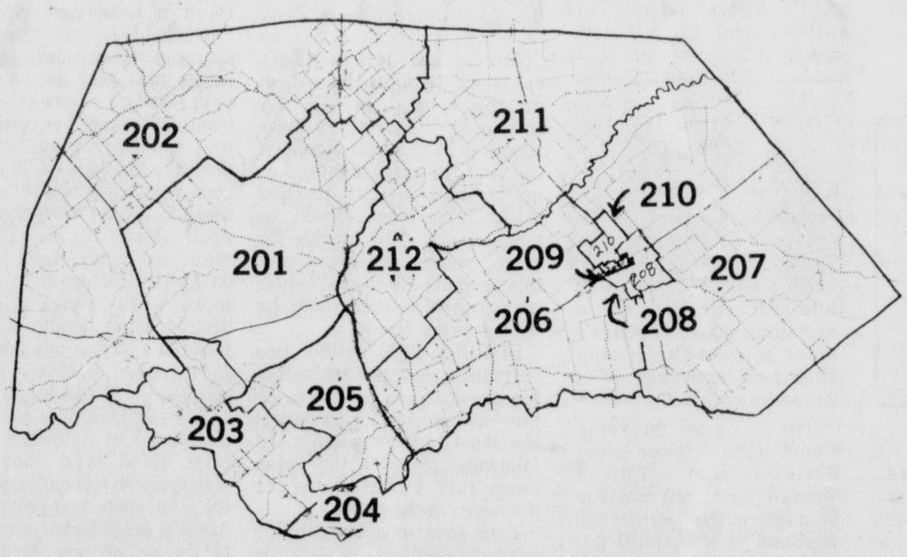
Pond has tentatively projected Georgetown's 1980 population at 11,508, Taylor's at 14,067, and Round Rock's at 11,306.

He estimates Williamson County's present population at 60,501 (up 23,196 from the last count) and its 1980 population at 74,000.

Pond said the proposed census tracts may be changed before the final plan is submitted to the government.

He added that area residents might be interested to learn more at Wednesday's meeting about how the county has grown and how it might grow.

County Census Tract Project Proposal



WOODEN RAILINGS on the new Hike and Bike Trail bridge in San Gabriel Park in Georgetown broke up Friday evening as the swollen waters of the South San Gabriel River rushed over it.

The rains came— and just kept on

Farmers in Williamson County wanted rain, and rain was what they got; starting with thundershowers Thursday night. It continued to rain off an on until the SUN went to press Friday afternoon.

Friday evening Williamson County was still under a severe thunderstorm watch as rising water continued to close many county roads.

FM 1660 between Jonah and Hutto was closed Friday evening along with County Roads 273, 271, 279, 100, 140, 190 and 369.

The intersection of State Highway 195 and U. S. 183, just west of Florence, was not closed but several small cars had been stranded in the area due to the rising water.

The new Hike and Bike Trail Bridge in San Gabriel Park in Georgetown, officially open only about two weeks, had the wooden railings badly broken up as the South San Gabriel River rose over it.

Thursday night there were several tornados reported in the Cedar Park area in southwestern Williamson County, but there were no reports of property damages.

There were also reports of hail damage in the Volente area Thursday night.

Man sought in Round Rock not 'molester'

A man earlier described as a "child molester" has neither actually harmed or sexually abused any Round Rock children nor even broken any laws so far as authorities there know, Round Rock Police Chief Kenneth Langston reported late this week.

LANGSTON CAUTIONED against public alarm in this area, explaining that his office has received no reports of children being physically harmed or abused in connection with a case reported in Thursday's SUN.

But he confirmed and reiterated that his department is seeking information about a man who has reportedly made questionable approaches to several young girls in that city.

Langston said his department has received reports that a man has made suggestions to some girls between the ages of 6 and 12 indicating that he wants them to go somewhere with him.

"We've been getting about 50 calls a day here, and some of them are from mothers who have heard rumors that girls have been raped and murdered. We don't have any reports like that," said Langston.

"In fact, he (the man) actually hasn't even broken any laws as far as we know and no charges have been filed against anyone. We're just worried about such a guy and what he might do."

LANGSTON CONFIRMED that his office is seeking information about a man described as follows: Caucasian, 45-55 years old, 5'9" to 6 feet tall, between 180-190 pounds, with fair complexion, hazel eyes, and white or grey hair which may be slightly tan or light brown at a receding hairline.

The man is reported to be heavy-set or stocky, of medium build and with a "beer belly", and distinguished by a scar on the right side of his nose similar to the scar left by a lanced mole or boil.

He is also described as having a gentle, persuasive voice marked by an occasional stutter.

According to report, the man is well-dressed and well-groomed, usually wearing either a blue suit and pants, and at times checkered shirts and jackets.

HE IS REPORTED to drive several cars, including a two-tone brown 1969-71 Chevrolet and a 1970-'76 foreign compact.

He is reported to approach girls between the ages of 6 and 12 during early morning and late afternoon hours and seems to select them after careful study rather than at random.

Round Rock officer Larry Newman said earlier in the week that six such incidents have been reported since last October, with other reports in December and February and the latest March 30.

Citizens with information concerning the case should contact the Round Rock police department at 255-3692.

Bond issue back on agenda

Georgetown school trustees have again placed a vote on the proposed $1,570,000 bond issue on the agenda for their 7 p.m. Monday meeting. The issue was scheduled for a vote at the called meeting on April 11, however, architect Eugene McKee was unable to attend and the vote was delayed until Monday.

The money for the bond would be used to finance proposed changes and additions to Georgetown Primary School, Westside School and Northside Middle School.

THE LAST FIGURES the board discussed for the Primary School were $438,500 to add 10 classrooms, a new cafeteria and remodel the old cafeteria to provide resource rooms, teacher lounge and music rooms. Westside changes were estimated at $580,300, including building a larger cafeteria and converting the existing cafeteria. Expenses at Northside were expected to reach $241,500 for remodeling the girl's dressing room, building a new dressing room, adding restrooms and building five classrooms.

The board will canvass the election returns, swear in new members and reorganize, electing new officers, president, vice-president and secretary, for one year terms.

Approval or disapproval of the school calendar for 1977-78 is also on the agenda. The Texas House of Representatives recently passed a bill cutting the school year from 180 to 174 days and changing the number of in-service training days for teachers from 10 to six per year. These changes may, if approved by the Senate, have an effect on the Georgetown school calendar.

THE PUBLIC is encouraged to attend the meeting in the Georgetown High School Library.

If you are one of the people who wanted a good rain — Friday was your day!

Most farmers and all ranchers were happy to see the moisture and everyone wondered if the rivers would rise high enough to test the partially built dams. When I wrote this the rivers weren't that high.

I THINK IT'S ALL RIGHT that the $50 rebate plan was scrapped. What we need is tax relief on a broad, consistent scale, the stabilization of our monetary values, the end of hot inflation and jobs. I doubt that the rebate, as considered, would have benefitted any of those needs. I noted in the Friday papers that Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board hailed Carter's decision, and said of the president — "This is an act of extraordinary honesty and courage." Strange how this works, if we had disagreed we would say it was the double-cross — "Ye old president has welched on his word!"

Our Centennial Issue of the SUN is making progress at a painfully slow pace. It's due to appear May 19 and if we don't make a lot more headway in the next 30 days than we have in the past 60 it's going to be slimmer than I expected.

Cleanup Week begins Monday

Don't forget that this coming week will present an opportunity for Georgetown residents to get rid of trash, brush, abandoned vehicles and other unwanted items free of charge as the city holds its ninth annual Cleanup Campaign.

THE DRIVE, co-sponsored by the city and the Greater Georgetown Area Chamber of Commerce, will cover all areas within the city limits.

City Mgr. Leo Wood, directing the effort along with Chamber Mgr. Lloyd Longley, said residents will have Monday to get their items prepared for pickup. The city hopes residents will get those items out to their curbsides Monday instead of waiting until Tuesday, so pickup crews will not be overwhelmed toward the end of the drive.

Both trash and brush to be picked up should be placed at the resident's curbside. Trash should be placed in containers, but brush need not be bundled.

To arrange pickup of especially large or heavy items such as stoves, call the Chamber office (863-2251). Specify what is to be picked up and where.

REMOVAL of junked and abandoned vehicles will be handled by the Police Dept.

Campaign directors point out that Cleanup Week is a good time to get rid of the results of spring cleaning.

Mayor John Doerfler has also officially proclaimed Cleanup Week and urged all Georgetown residents "to work with the City of Georgetown, Williamson County and the Chamber of Commerce to make this an outstanding project."

Week's news in a nutshell

The City of Austin recently moved to annex 358 acres in strips along U. S. 183 and FM 620, saying that the move is necessary to impose some planning standards on growth in that area. Officials in both Cedar Park and Round Rock have raised questions about the annexation, with Cedar Park officials saying it would cut off further growth for them and Round Rock officials questioning whether Austin should control a subdivision that gets its water from Round Rock.

OUR GOVERNMENT 'BURNING BOOKS'

Britain's Sir Winston Churchill earned millions with his books and paintings but, Britain's estate taxes being what they are, his widow had to auction household furnishings to pay for food, medicine and rent.

DOUBTLESS SIR WINSTON was convinced that he was leaving his "darling Clementine" comfortably fixed, but what with taxation and inflation she, at 91, has no income beyond a widow's pension of $27 a week.

It can happen here, too.

Last year you saw news photos of the Southwest artist De Grazia burning hundreds of his paintings. The skimpy explanation left the impression that this was an unbecoming demonstration by a selfish artist who was "angry about taxes."

That's not the whole of it.

Should De Grazia die, leaving to his heirs those paintings, they would immediately become part of his taxable estate at whatever value the government's appraisers should decree.

GOVERNMENT APPRAISERS could say they were "worth $2 million" and the heirs would have to come up with more than a million cash for taxes — from somewhere.

Sell the paintings? Logical, except that to flood the market with the paintings of any artist would cheapen them to a fraction of their rightful value.

Wildlife artist Larry Toschik recently destroyed 26 years of his life's work, fearful that his widow might otherwise be impoverished by inheritance taxes.

This grotesque distortion of justice derives from the Tax Reform Act of 1969.

TO PREVENT NIXON from doing the same thing, the Congress hastily slammed shut that tax "loophole," but in a manner which includes literary and art works.

That is why the death of Calder created consternation in the marketplace.

I think that is why Hemingway's widow is publishing anything subsequent over her own name.

I know that is why Igor Stravinsky, when he learned his $3.5 million gift to Yale would yield no tax relief for his heirs, sent those precious manuscripts to Russia instead!

BEYOND THE FACT that this is another law which destroys incentive for producers, the cruelest affront to the artists themselves is that their estates are taxed out of existence by a government which spends millions to subsidize junk art!

Anyway, if you hear again and again of bonfires of books or manuscripts or paintings, the world is being deprived of those treasures only because the widows could otherwise be left destitute.

And yet to be heard is a test case alleging that the artists' bonfires are "destruction of government property."

Should that come to pass, as the late artist Thomas Hart Benton once said, "I wouldn't dare paint another picture."

Pawnshops: fewer but busier

By John D. Moorhead

Chicago

Looking for a Gibson L5 guitar or a Leica IIIG camera? And the corner music or photo store cannot help, because these models are no longer manufactured?

Try a pawnshop. That is what many collectors of antiques and other scarce items are doing these days.

Only trouble is, the number of pawnshops is shrinking and has been for the last 10 years.

In New York City, such shops have dwindled from 100 to 30, reports David Cohen, president of the Pawnbrokers Association of the City of New York.

Still, brokers contacted in New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles report that business is brisk. The bulk of the trade is in jewelry and watches, with typewriters, TVs, musical instruments, and other assorted oddments making up a typical pawnshop inventory.

Most of what is pawned is on the up-and-up, Mr. Cohen stoutly maintains. "Stolen property amounts to less than 1 percent of the loans," he says, arguing that pawnbrokers make regular reports to the police on their transactions. He explains that it is in their self-interest to guard against accepting goods that they might later have to surrender to the police without compensation.

Pawnbrokers say in interviews that the amount of cash they will shell out for a "pledged" item varies with its nature and quality. Jewelry may bring 35 to 40 percent of what the broker thinks it is worth, while items which go out of style rapidly, like clothing, may bring 20 percent or less.

Some popular items for which collectors are scouring pawnshops right now include:

- "Hunting case," watches. These are pocket watches with a cover you can close. Typically they are gold, with scroll work and/or initials on their covers. They sell for between $100 and $400.
- Fine cameras such as Leica, Nikon, and Hasselblad. A Leica IIIF or IIIG, neither of which is produced any longer, sells for $90 or $100.
- Gibson guitars made in the late 1950s.

There is no national trade association for pawnbroking, so comprehensive statistics are hard to come by. And the business is heavily influenced by local conditions. State laws vary widely in setting maximum interest rates which can be charged the pawnor and minimum periods that the pawned item must be held before a shop may offer it for sale.

Nevertheless, the pawnshop seems to be under pressure all across the United States.

Sidney Swesnik thinks that is what is happening. And he cites his native Chicago as an example. "Ten years ago, there were 65 to 70 pawnshops here; now, there are 15 or 16."

In 1910, his father founded the Swesnik Loan Company, a pawnshop which Sidney Swesnik and his brother now operate in the steel-imposed shade of the Loop's elevated trolley tracks. Mr. Swesnik has been a pawnbroker all his life, except for a "vacation" fighting Axis troops in North Africa and Italy during World War II.

Both Mr. Swesnik and Mr. Cohen cite rising costs as one reason for the decline of pawnshops. Mr. Cohen estimates that in New York the cost of doing business has risen five-fold since 1970.

Mr. Swesnik points to the annual $2,400 annual licensing fee, inflating labor and utilities costs, and the cost of money itself.

Capital is important in pawnbroking, just as it is in any business. The required time that items must be held in warehouse space before they can be sold ties up capital which often must be borrowed.

In Illinois, for example, an item must be held 13 months before the pawnbroker can sell it. In New York, the period is six months, but the item must be held a year if the pawnor so requests. States such as Indiana and Nevada have shorter holding periods, however.

If you hanker for a pocket watch just like your grandfather used to carry, why not head for the nearest pawnshop? But when you get there don't be surprised to find empty, dust-patterned display windows and a "for lease" sign taped to the door.

Whose miscalculation?

"Miscalculation" seems to be the spreading code word for putting the blame for the breakdown of the strategic arms talks on the Americans instead of the Russians. President Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance are being asked to affirm or deny that they "miscalculated" in framing the offer the Kremlin so crudely rejected.

Mr. Carter and Mr. Vance may have miscalculated in choosing their staff, since the "miscalculation" code word got started on Secretary Vance's airplane. .

Who was it on Mr. Vance's plane who came back from Moscow arguing the Russian case? The question does not seem to have escaped Mr. Carter's people, since press spokesman Jody Powell specifically denied the stories.

The stories are also, though, an accurate reflection of the proclivity of a U.S. bureaucracy to respond to Soviet intransigence by starting to negotiate with itself. For some reason which has always been mysterious to us, arms negotiators have trouble entertaining the possibility that the Soviets are not interested in an even-handed deal but in advantages for themselves. If you start with the assumption of Soviet good faith, you can always figure an agreement is merely a matter of giving a little more here and asking a little less there.

If on the other hand you are trying to find out whether the Soviets are interested in an even-handed deal you do what Mr. Carter did — offer them one and stick to it. If they don't think the deal is truly even-handed, they can always counter-offer. But instead they rejected it outright, and are now waiting to see if the U. S. comes back with a better one. They calculate that they can win the negotiations because they are under less pressure for an agreement than Mr. Carter is.

They may be right, unless Mr. Carter gets a good grip on both his staff and his courage. For the "miscalculation" stories show again the kind of logic that has been so prevalent on the American side of the negotiations: If the Russians rebuff our offers, there must be something wrong with our offers. Perish the thought that there is something wrong with the Russians — The Wall Street Journal

Perish the thought, indeed.

President Carter is, we hope, a product of the farming industry that has developed a long line of horse traders, fellows who know you have to ask more to get the rightful value. There's haggling to be done before the trade is consumated and you never admit, even after transaction is completed, that you got the best of the deal.

SURE, THE RUSSIANS want to forge ahead. They want to lead the race and it's hard to believe their intentions aren't sinister. They know and we know they were never in danger from this country when we had an absolute monopoly on the H-bomb. The reason Russia wants to lead now is very clear — they want to be in position to call the shots and from ``ere we sit it appears they aren't far from that goa.

Hang in there, Jimmy!

STATE Capital NEWS

AUSTIN — A $528 million finance bill — most monumental achievement of the legislature to date — finally wound its way through the legislature and moved to the governor's desk.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who tagged the measure an emergency and plugged for it in both houses, applauded passage and promptly scheduled signing ceremonies this week.

The bill was deadlocked for six weeks in Senate sub-committee after Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby insisted the $674 million House version was excessive.

After Hobby engineered a compromise on a $428 million bill with a built-in inflation-adjusting mechanism to take care of future needs, new trouble developed in the Senate.

Briscoe held out for another $100 million to repair weather-damaged roads, and Hobby agreed.

Several senators, including A. R. Schwartz of Galveston and Lloyd Doggett of Austin, who weren't too keen on the highway department getting first crack at a big bundle of money, waged a battle against the compromise in the Senate. Schwartz was particularly irate about addition of the last $100 million.

Schwartz and Doggett claimed commitment of the additional revenue to highways killed a $258 million tax cut passed by the House. Hobby agreed there is now no chance for elimination of the state sales tax in utility bills, but Briscoe insisted the levy can still be taken off.

Over a 20 year period, the compromise bill will provide more money for highway building than the original House version. Briscoe had requested about $825 million in his initial recommendations for additional highway funding.

Session Speeding

The legislature, following an Easter recess, shifted gears for the final month and a half of the 65th session.

Major business — including school finance legislation and a $15.6 billion general appropriations bill for 1978-79 — awaited the House this week. The governor tagged school finance as an emergency.

The Senate may see its Finance Committee's budget bill next week and its Education Committee's school funding proposals soon thereafter.

Presiding officers of both houses and Gov. Briscoe are optimistic over chances for an early windup of the session. But most observers conclude that, realistically, legislators aren't likely to adjourn before the 140-day deadline at the end of May.

Presiding officers and the governor are convinced accomplishments will be significant.

Malpractice Debate Set

The Senate will begin debate on a medical malpractice compromise bill April 18.

The Senate Jurisprudence Committee advanced the House-passed measure to the floor with no more than technical changes, postponing the big fight over amendments.

Prostitution Curbed

Legislation to increase penalties for prostitution passed the House last week.

New penalties (up to $1,000 fine and 180 days in jail in first offense) would apply to both parties to a solicitation. Another measure passed overwhelmingly by the House extends penalties to those who solicit others to engage in sex for pay.

AG Rules

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

The sales tax on residential utility bills could be wiped out without abolishing the levy on commercial users.

Home rule cities may require public officials to file financial disclosure statements on their assets and incomes.

The open records act does not require disclosure of the name of a person who lodged a complaint with another to a city animal control division.

General partners of a limited partnership operating under an assumed name must execute and file an "assumed name certificate" with the county clerk.

Courts Speak

The U.S. Supreme Court turned down appeals of two condemned murderers from Texas.

The Texas Supreme Court upheld lower court decisions that a Lufkin woman could not recover damages in the death of her husband at a hospital following administration of an anesthetic.

The State Court of Criminal Appeals ordered a new trial for a man given a life term for the slaying of a Kerr County ranch worker.

The State Supreme Court will hear an appeal by a Starr County man claiming a finance company should not be allowed to sue him for debt in Dallas courts.

Short Snorts

The House passed a bill allowing the Banking Commissioner to deny stock acquisition involving 25 per cent or more of a state bank's voting securities for specified reasons after a charter has been issued.

A bill to repeal a requirement that motorcyclists over 18 wear helmets was passed by the Senate and sent to the House.

Gov. Briscoe reappointed T. Louis Austin Jr. of Dallas, Joe LaMantia of McAllen and Fred W. Shield of San Antonio to the Texas Board of Corrections.

Public Utility Commission informed congress it will not allow any future power plants using natural gas as boiler fuel to generate electricity in Texas.

Six applications for permits to sell $18.3 million in Texas securities were filed with the State Securities Board last week.

Horticulture Notes

Special program makes for stronger pecan trees

by John Cooper
County Horticulturist

Increasing interest in pecan production has demanded the formulation of a comprehensive system for establishing new trees. With pecans, an extended time period occurs from planting until a crop can be harvested. Whether for pleasure or profit anyone planting a pecan tree wants a crop as quickly as possible. Intensified research on this problem has resulted in a carefully prescribed establishment program.

THIS PROGRAM not only brings about an earlier crop but builds a stronger, longer-lived tree that will bear more in less space. Central leader training, pinching, tip-pruning, zinc applications, nitrogen fertilization, sufficient watering and weed control are all components of this program.

As you look around at pecan trees today you see spreading branches coming off the trunk up about 3 to 6 feet. This type of growth forms a circular foliage area. As the tree gets larger and spreading the lower limbs are shaded. Shaded limbs decline in vigor and are eventually self-pruned by the tree. This spreading also takes up more room than if the tree were growing upright. What is desired is to continue one central trunk on up as high as it can be directed. Off this central leader will spring lateral limbs. These limbs will grow from the central leader at strong right angles instead of forming the weak narrow angles of spreading trees.

The pattern of limb development can be controlled but only by starting early in the tree's life. As the tree grows one shoot is encouraged to grow by "pinching" the terminal buds out of all the shoot tips except on the central leader. By restricting the growth of these shoots to 12-24 inches annually, the food and water is moved on up through to the central leader. Each tree should be pinched every 2-3 weeks for three growing seasons. Under this program the central leader may grow 36 inches or more the first growing season.

DURING THE FIRST two dormant seasons remove half of the previous year's growth on the central leader. This causes the shoot to grow rapidly the following year. At the same time this builds a larger diameter on the trunk.

Each year beginning with the third dormant season strip the lower one-third of the limbs off the tree. Stop stripping leaves off at the five foot level where the permanent limbs should begin.

From growing season four through eight you should practice tip-pruning. By removing the terminal 3 to 4 buds you will increase side branching. This will produce more fruiting surfaces while containing the size of the tree for the first ten years or so.

The success of this training program depends upon the regularity with which the other portions of the program are carried out.

Zinc is very important to get full shoot extension and leaf expansion. Consequently the total foliage area capable of feeding the tree and ultimately the nuts depends upon the avilability of zinc. Apply zinc to non-bearing trees every two weeks from April 15 to August 15. Use zinc sulfate at 2 pounds or NZN at 1¼ qt. in 100 gallons of water.

FERTILIZER is important for rapid and sustained growth. In the first year do not apply fertilizer unless the transplanted tree has recovered well and is growing fast and then only in late May. In the second year apply one lb. of ammonium sulfate to each tree on April 1, May 1 and June 1. In the third year apply three pounds on April 1 and again June 1. If more even distribution is desired some benefit may be found in applying one pound on April 1, April 15, May 1, May 15 and June 1. A regular 14 oz. to 16 oz. vegetable can measures one pound of ammonium sulfate. Each tree should be watered with one gallon per day the first year, two gallons per day the second year and three to six gallons the third year. These amounts can be applied in two applications per week.

Competition for food and water by weeds should be reduced through, hoeing, disking or herbicide use. Disking may be necessary 5-8 times a year. Three applications of herbicide annually can effectively control weeds. No mater what the method weeds should be controlled six feet in diameter the first year, 8 feet the second year and 10 feet the third year.

Each cultural treatment outlined here supports the others. Taken alone they yield only marginal success. Taken as a whole and applied as a total program growers across the state have obtained excellent results.

International House to feature art & music Tues.

On Tuesday, April 19 The International House at Southwestern University will present an International Art Show and a concert. The art show will begin at 7 p.m. and will feature art work, sculpture, etc. by the house residents.

Carol Bennett and Linda Phillips are in charge of this event.

At 8 p.m. Jim Oliver and Southwestern University's Coffee House are presenting the well-known guitarist and vocalist, Stephen Jarrard, in concert.

Mr. Jarrard appears regularly at Anderson Fair and Theodores in Houston. The concert will be held in the backyard of The International House and in case of rain will move inside.

The public is cordially invited to attend both of these programs.

There is no admission charge for either.

Newcomers preparing for May 6 style show

Plans for the popular annual Style Show, presented by Dor-Rin's of Lakeaire Shopping Center and the Newcomers Club are already being planned by the Georgetown club.

This is a very exciting event that we've all been anticipating. The latest styles for spring and summer will be presented at a seated luncheon on May 6 at 12 noon at the Southwestern Faculty Lounge in the Commons.

Tickets are available at Alexander-Bailey Furniture at $4 per person.

All you working ladies should be able to attend, since it will take place during the noon hour. This will be the last Newcomer meeting for this school year. Next year's officers will be presented at the luncheon.

Everyone is invited to attend this special program.

Mickan is Jr. Rotarian

Tim Mickan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mickan, has been selected Junior Rotarian by the Georgetown Rotary Club for the month of April. Tim is a senior at Georgetown High School.

Tim played football his entire high school career. He was named Most Valuable Defensive Player last year by his teammates, and this year was captain of the team. He was also named All-District Linebacker, All-District Honorable Mention Guard, and All-Williamson County Linebacker. Baseball has also been a favorite of his. He has been on the baseball team since his sophomore year and named All Super-Centex Honorable Mention last year. Tim played basketball as a freshman.

Tim has been a class Representative on the Student Council since his freshman year. He was elected to the National Honor Society his junior year. He was a member of the Radio Club last year and was elected Honor Junior by last year's graduating class. Tim was elected by the entire high school student body recently as a Mr. G. H. S. Nominee, an election entitled to only four senior boys.

Outside of his school activities, Tim is active also in his church, Zion Lutheran at Walburg, as well as its youth organization where he serves as President. After graduation Tim will attend college but is undecided at this time because of athletic scholarships being offered to him which school he will choose.

April 30 sales tax deadline

Retail merchants and other sales tax permit holders are being asked to put a red circle around the date April 30 on their calendars. That's the deadline for filing quarterly sales tax reports with the State Comptroller's office.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock urges permit holders to contact the nearest Comptroller's Field Office or call the toll-free tax information number (1-800-252-5555) if they have any question about their returns.

"Failure to meet that deadline can result in penalties for the permit holder," Bullock reminded.

VA van to visit G'town

Information and counseling services for area veterans and their dependents will be available from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday when a van manned by two U. S. Veterans Administration Benefits Counselors sets up shop on the south side of the Williamson County Courthouse square in Georgetown.

Veterans will have an opportunity to talk to VA representatives about educationa programs, employment, job training, home loans, medical benefits, disability compensation, pensions, life insurance, death benefits, and other veterans' benefits.

Leander trustee, newspaper sued for defamation

Three Leander residents have filed a $1 million defamation of character suit against an area newspaper and one member of the Leander school board.

The three plaintiffs, Joe Ketscher, Cecil Reid and Ruth Poole, have all been active in the Leander Taxpayer's League, a conservative group that has been influential in school board politics.

THE SUIT stems from a letter to the editor written by school board member David Kirkland and printed in the March 31 edition of the Hill Country News.

Co-defendants named in the suit are Bluebonnet Publishing, Inc., owner of the newspaper; publisher Joan Puckett; and Kirkland.

THE PLAINTIFFS claim that the letter was a "concerted, intentional and malicious act. . . timed and structured to sacrifice the reputations of the plaintiffs. . ."

The letter charges Reid, Kutscher and Poole with ". . . responsibility for the disruption of the district, the total lack of quality education, programing, facilities and planning. . ."

The letter also accused the three of personal profiteering at the expense of education in the district.

KIRKLAND also said in the letter that, "The actions of their board lead me to suspect that their motive is the dissolution of the LISD."

Until the election two weeks ago, 4 of the 7 members on the Leander school board were supported by the Leander Taypayer's League.

HOWEVER, candidates supported by the league were defeated by large majorities in all three positions in the April 2 election, including incumbent Willie Todd.

Lopez ends helicopter training class

Marine Private First Class Mario Lopez, whose wife Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Santos Pina of Route 1, Box 395A, Leander, has completed the Basic Helicopter Course.

The six-week course was conducted at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Millington, Tenn. Students received instruction on the operation of helicopters and studied mechanic training, the theory of rotary-winged flight and power plant principles. In addition, Lopez underwent five days of practical application on transmission systems, flight controls and general helicopter maintenance.

He joined the Marine Corps in December 1976.

Small firms workshop set

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

This is the weekend for our big bi-annual Arts and Craft Fair, and Main Street will be buzzing with activity. Just in case some of you still don't know, the Arts and Craft Fair is being held on Liberty Hill Square in the covered booths which are located conveniently near the temporary site of our sculptures. We hope everyone who hasn't already done so will make plans to get to the fair before the day is over.

While you are in town you might be interested in going by the newly-opened Horne and Chesley Art Gallery located in the Loft upstairs over The Theatre and The Sweet Shoppe. They will be having their informal opening and will have several pieces of sculpture on display, including some by Harry Noodrhoek of Italy. Come out and make a day seeing all of the interesting sites in downtown Liberty Hill. The Arts and Craft Fair will be in progress from 11 a.m. until dark Saturday so you will have plenty of time to see it all!

The Beginner Band and the Panther Band will present their formal "Spring Concert" at the PTA meeting which will be held on Monday evening, April 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the school. The agenda for the meeting will include the election of officers for the coming year, and the finalizing of plans for the upcoming Spring Carnival, which will be sponsored by the PTA.

The PTA Spring Carnival will be held on the football field and the school cafeteria with many exciting activities including bingo, a country store, a dunk tank, a cake walk, a balloon clown, a hay ride and many other things.

There will also be a dinner of barbecued chicken, beans, potato salad and all the trimmings served from 5:30 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. Bingo and a dance will be held on the tennis courts from 8 p. m. until 11 p.m.

Donations for the country store are needed, including cakes, wieners, buns, ground beef, cheese, onions, tomatoes, lettuce, beans and hot dog sauce — plants are also needed for the country store. All donations will be greatly appreciated and volunteer workers are needed to man the booths. Anyone who can work, even if just for an hour, should contact Hazel Williams or Rhanae Ziller.

In a rematch between Liberty Hill and Marble Falls the Panthers again won by a 2 run margin edging Marble Falls by 7-5. Donnie Johnson, who is now 3-3 for the year, was the winning pitcher. The Panthers scored 4 runs in their first time at bat. Eddie Brewster got a single, Donnie Johnson hit a double, as did Robert Stephens, and Don Vickers got a walk. These coupled with an error by Marble Falls enabled the Panthers to take a lead which they never relinquished. Later in the game Robert Stephens got a triple, Joe Lopez, David Hernandez and Donnie Johnson hit singles, and Don Vickers got a double.

Donnie Johnson struck out 5 batters while allowing only 5 hits to keep Marble Falls from getting things going.

Our community suffered a great loss last Tuesday when our beloved Constable Lee Hays passed away. Each time this good man came by to visit he always left me feeling better. I feel that he rendered a great service to our community during his term as Constable, and he will be sorely missed by his family and his many friends. Mr. Hays was a longtime resident of our town. He and his family were my friends. I am glad that he came our way.

Every man comes through this world only once, and it is always good for each to make a contribution to his fellow man so that people will remernber him for the good he did. Surely, it isn't necessarily true that, "The evil men do lives after them, but the good is often interred with their bones!"

Pirates to battle East Texans following split with Trinity

Southwestern University was scheduled to try to keep its conference hopes alive in Georgetown Friday and Saturday in a three game series with East Texas Baptist College.

A single game was slated for Georgetown's San Gabriel Park at 3 p.m. Friday and a doubleheader will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday on the same field.

THE EASTEXANS had a 16-1 record coming into conference play three weeks ago but lost two of three against St. Edward's and now find themsleves in virtually the same position as Southwestern in the conference standings — looking up to St. Mary's perfect 6-0 league record. ETBC has a 6-3 conference slate and Southwestern stands at 3-3.

Coach Jim Mallon planned to start Waco freshman lefthander James Limmer against ETBC Friday and Wharton senior Steve Wendtland in the first game Saturday.

Meanwhile the Pirates moved past the 30-games-won mark, the fifth year in a row, as they split a double-header with Trinity University in Georgetown Tuesday and discovered that two other wins had been added to their slate as Hardin-Simmons had forfeited two of its games earlier in the season because of an ineligible player.

TRINITY AND SOUTHWESTERN split a doubleheader with the Tigers winning the opener 5-2 and Southwestern taking the second game 9-1. SU now has a season record of 31-13.

Trinity pitcher Pat Walsh handcuffed the Bucs in the first game, allowing only six scattered hits while striking out eight and walking none.

Southwestern, on the other hand, allowed four unearned runs and five stolen bases in the first game as Kim Mason pitched the first five innings and Ricky Gravens the final two. Kenny Wenzel scored both Pirate runs with a home run in the third inning and with a run in the sixth on a Trinity error while Tim Reig had three singles in three times at bat.

In the second game the Pirate bats started connecting with three home runs including a grand slammer by Bruce Fell, a two run shot by Jim Miller, and Joe Farr's sixth homer of the season.

EQUALLY AS IMPRESSIVE was the pitching of Wendtland who allowed only two hits and one run while striking out four and walking two in going the distance.

The blond right-hander now has a 6-0 record and the top earned run average on the team at 1.62. He has allowed 25 hits in 39 innings. On top of that, he leads the team batting average at .444 as a pinch hitter.

Tim Reig got another hit in two times at bat to end up four-for-five for the day while Farr and Fell each had two-for-three performances including their homers and Frank Rodrigues hit a single and double in his three at-bats.

Farr now has 50 hits for the season and a chance at All American Kenny Cmerek's record of 65 hits for a Southwestern season with nine games remaining.

Two juco roundballers sign with Southwestern

Two junior college players have signed letters of intent to play basketball at Southwestern University, Coach John Edwards announced this week.

THE TWO are Lester Hahn of Austin, who played this year for Concordia College, and Adrian Knapper of Merrero, La., who played for Cooke County Junior College.

Hahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hahn of 5506 Tipton Drive in Austin, is a 6-5, 195-lb. forward-center who was named "All Europe" while in high school.

He plans to major in biology at Southwestern.

KNAPPER, a 6-0 guard, was the "Freshman of the Year" at Cooke County J. C. where he scored 12 points per game. He also received the "Outstanding Citizenship Award" while at Cooke County, and was named "Most Inspirational" and "Best Defensive Player" in his senior year in high school. Knapper will major in psychology at Southwestern.

"These two young men show promise not only on the basketball court but in the classroom. We're proud that they are coming to Southwestern," Edwards said.

Southwestern had its first winning season in several years as the Pirates won 14 and lost 11.

Buc swimmers win eight events at Nacogdoches

Southwestern University's swimming team won eight events and placed in nine others in a recent meet in Nacogdoches with host Stephen F. Austin State University and Baylor University.

"IF WE HAD some more on the team I believe we could have won the meet," said student swimmer-coach Karl Scholl. "As it was, I think we did great."

The Pirate swimmers have organized on their own, trained themselves, entered meets on their own initiative, and are looking for some more competition.

Southwestern has a heated indoor pool in its new Sid. W. Richardson Physical Education Center to go along with its outdoor pool, and interest in competitive swimming and diving has doubled as the new facilities have been added.

The Pirate men took a first in the 200 yard medley relay and a second in the 200-yd. freestyle relay with Scholl, Mark Howell, Eric Perkins and Phil Bullard in the medley and Scholl, Howell, Bullard and Scott Coulter in the free-style event.

THE WOMEN did not have enough team members for the relays but won several individual events with Elaine Carleton taking first in the 200-yd. freestyle, the 100-yd. freestyle and the 50-yd. freestyle and third in the 50-yd. breaststroke. Aubra Frazier took second places in the 50-yd. butterfly and the 500-yd. freestyle and third in the 200-yd. individual medley and the 100-yd freestyle.

Southwestern's men who won or placed individually included Bullard, first in the 50-yd. freestyle; Perkins, first in the 100-yd. freestyle and first in the 500-yd. freestyle; Scholl, second in the 200-yd. individual medley; Coulter, third in the 50-yd. freestyle and third in the 100-yd. breaststroke; and Howell, first in the 100-yd. backstroke.

LINKS LEADERS — Jan Wakefield and Bobby Newburg of Georgetown High School each earned a trip to the University Interscholastic League's regional high school golf competition in Corpus Christi when they beat out strong competition for top spots in the UIL's Dist. 12AAA girls and boys tournaments during the past two weeks. Bobby, a senior, posted the best score in the boys' competition last Monday and Tuesday and will visit Corpus April 28-29. Jan, a sophomore, shot the second best round in the girls tourney April 4-5; she will visit the Gulf Coast city Thursday and Friday. Both could go on to the state championships in Austin next month if they do well in regional competition. Overall, GHS' girls team finished third in the district tourney, just missing a team trip to Corpus, while the boys ended up sixth.

Heartbreaking results brought back by GHS Girls' Tennis Team

The Georgetown High School Girls' Tennis team made the trip to Taylor on Tuesday and Wednesday to participate in the District 12 AAA Tennis Tournament. The girls played hard and well but after the points were counted the numbers showed some heartbreaking results.

In varsity girls' singles, Monica Schroeder finished fourth. She beat the No. 3 seed, Ellen Bardin, from Westlake 3-6, 6-4, 7-5 before loosing to Laurie Pasemann on Taylor in the semi-finals.

ALISON CHAPMAN also played well in varsity singles. She defeated Cindy Chapman of Lockhart 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. Then she lost 6-1 to Sally Bowman of Westlake, who easily won the tournament, loosing only three games during the two days of play.

Cindy Howry and Amanda Mashburn lost an extremely close semifinal varsity doubles match to Taylor 7-5, 7-5. They then went on to take third place over team members, Nancy Magness and Sandra Busby 6-2, 6-3.

Fourth place in varsity doubles went to Nancy and Sandra. Tennis Coach Mike Clardy praised these two saying they had greatly improved during the year and were one of the up and coming teams in the district.

JUNIOR VARSITY matches were also close, but the Georgetown girls could not seem to come out on top.

Laurie MacEwan took second place in J-V singles, loosing to Patty Ruzicka of Taylor 6-2, 6-3. Teammate Kathie Phillips took fourth in J-V singles.

When asked about this string of defeats on top of such an outstanding winning season, Coach Clardy told the SUN that the girls played well and that bad breaks at crucial times worked against them.

"They had a good season overall," Clardy added. "These girls worked hard all year. They had a good attitude and showed a lot of improvement through the season. I have a very positive outlook for our chances next year."

District tennis tourney on tap for GHS courts

The District 12 AAA Boys' Tennis Tournament will be held in Georgetown on Monday and Tuesday at the high school tennis courts.

Tournament play will begin at 9 a.m. on Monday and will last until 3:30 or 4 p.m., with two rounds of varsity and two rounds of junior varsity play on the roster: Tuesday the semi-finals matches will begin at 10 a.m. The public is encouraged to come out to support the Georgetown players.

In varsity boys' singles, Georgetown's Dick Suh is No. 2 seed. He will be paired against Kelly Whitis of Lampasas in the first round of play at 9 a.m. on April 18.

Mark Edwards, another GHS singles player, will be up against Jason Wilcox, No. 4 seed from Belton, in the first round.

Georgetown varsity boys' doubles teams will play at 10:15 a.m. on Monday. The No. 3 seed Kenny Hibbs and David Hays will play DuBoise and Beltran of Round Rock. GHSers Pat Beggs and Jay Phillips will also be on the courts at that time, facing Phillips and Bible from Lampasas.

Junior varsity singles player David Wolf is No. 4 seed in the tournament. He will face Tony Arreola of Del Valle on the school courts at 10:15 a.m.

Doubles teams in the junior varsity division will play at 2:15 p.m. Jim Cardwell and Clarke Snell, No. 1 seeds from Georgetown and Jay Barksdale and Tim Magness, GHS No. 2 seeds, will be on the courts for afternoon play.

Spectators are invited to attend the matches. There is no admission charge and the players would appreciate some friendly faces cheering them on to victory.

Gretchen Peterson to play this weekend in national piano contest

FORT WORTH — Gretchen Peterson of 904 East University Avenue in Georgetown has qualified as a contestant in the Texas Girls' Choir 12th Annual National Piano Contest April 16 and 17.

Pianists will be competing for $425 in cash awards plus trophies and ribbons during the contest at the Texas Girls' Choir building, 4449 Camp Bowie Blvd. in Fort Worth.

THE WINNER will appear as a guest soloist at the Texas Girls' Choir 15th anniversary spring concert at 8 p.m. May 7 in the Tarrant County Convention Center Theater. She also will receive $250 and a trophy.

Other awards will be $100 and a trophy for second place, $50 and a trophy for third place, $25 and a ribbon for fourth place, and a ribbon for fifth place.

Residents of eighteen Texas cities — Fort Worth, Arlington, Bedford, Dallas, Rhome, Grand Prairie, Denton, Commerce, Richardson, Duncanville, San Angelo, Celina, Fort Stockton, Los Fresnos, College Station, Georgetown, Temple, and Spring — are entering the two-day piano contest.

REPERTOIRE for the competition will include one number from the baroque, classical, romantic and contemporary periods and must be original piano music instead of arrangements.

All music must be memorized and contestants will be judged on technique, interpretation, stage presence, rhythm, musicianship, memorization, phrasing, pedaling, tone quality and impression of total performance.

Preliminary auditions will be played from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Saturday, April 16. Final auditions will begin at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, April 17. The public is invited to attend the piano contest.

MRS. T. SMITH McCORKLE, chairman, Harris Cavender, Lee Henrichs and Dr. Isabel Scionti will serve as judges for the contest.

CAN YOU IDENTIFY?

The group of men pictured above in front of H. Burkhardt's Shop south of the Square are obviously gathered for some special occasion. Can a reader tell us what and who some of the men and boys are? Note the wheelbarrows, one with J. B. or J. R. Salyer on it, flags and a large crum.

A multi-media exhibit of paintings, drawings, sculpture and jewelry by Robin S. Poerschke of Houston will be on view in the Gallery of the Alma Thomas Fine Arts Center at Southwestern University through April 25.

A reception on Sunday, April 17, at 2:30 p.m. in the Gallery officially opens the exhibit of 55 works by Ms. Poerschke. The public is invited to attend and vist with the artist.

A CANDIDATE for graduation in May from the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University, Poerschke will be the recipient of the bachelor of fine arts degree with a major in art. She has been studying with members of the art faculty, including Guss Farmer, David Everett and Claude Kennard. She plans to do graduate study at the University of Texas at Austin next fall.

Active in campus affairs, Poerschke is a member of Cardinal Key, Women's Recreation Association, Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and student representative from the art department to the fine arts faculty meetings.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Poerschke, 27 Valley Forge in Houston.

LORRIE TONN, fifth grader, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Tonn, and one of the Sunday Sun's bright "Little Merchants." Lorrie says she likes school, especially math, and outdoor sports. She is on the Noon Lion's Club Little League softball team, which had its first practice session of the spring this week.

County will consider constable's salaries

A PUBLIC HEARING will be held at Monday's county commissioners meeting to discuss raising salaries and/or increasing mileage payments to full time county constables.

Last Monday Constable Charles Fuller requested an increase in salary, and Commissioner Raymond Rister said he thought the county should consider paying full time constables at the same rate of pay as deputy sheriffs.

Commissioners are also scheduled to appoint a constable in Precinct No. 3. The position became vacant when Constable Lee Hays of Liberty Hill died last Tuesday.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, commissioners will consider:

- Deficiencies in the jail facility outlined in a recent study by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.
- Applications for the position of County Emergency Medical Services director. The job was left vacant by the resignation of James Simonson effective last week.
- Liability insurance for county employees.
- The final signing of the Round Rock ambulance contract.

Plenty planned for state 4-H'ers

THERE'S PLENTY in store for Texas 4-H members this year, says Jeannine Callahan, a 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Beginning in late April, 4-H representatives go to the nation's capital to attend the National 4-H Conference. At this time members can make major program recommendations for the 4-H program.

MORE 4-H'ers can visit Washington, D.C., in June and July for the National Citizenship Short Course and Heritage Tour. The youth can visit numerous historical sites and also have an opportunity to visit their congressmen.

Other 4-H'ers in Texas begin the summer months with Texas 4-H Roundup. More than 1,200 4-H'ers statewide come to the campus of Texas A&M University to meet new friends and show off their skills in more than 40 project areas — from rifle safety and public speaking to horse judging and child development. Everyone at Roundup is a winner, contends Miss Callahan.

July is time for the annual Texas 4-H Congress. This year 4-H'ers will gather in Corpus Christi for the week-long event to study "Oceans of Opportunity." Activities will include tours, exhibits, tasting festivals, music, dance and much more.

THE SUMMER is also an ideal time to study ecology, go on nature hikes, and enjoy water sports and lots of other exciting activities. The summer camping program at the Texas 4-H Center provides for all of this and more, adds Miss Callahan. Equipped with the latest in dining and sleeping facilities, the Center overlooks beautiful Lake Brownwood on a 78-acre site.

Fall brings record books — an activity in which most 4-H'ers are involved to learn record keeping, evaluate goals, and measure accomplishments.

THE STATE FAIR of Texas in October helps 4-H'ers celebrate fall with Rural Youth Day; that means free entrance for all 4-H'ers to the fairgrounds in Dallas.

For one week in October, 4-H'ers celebrate National 4-H Week. Parades, floats, festivals, radio and TV appearances, and exhibits all help to spread the news about the largest youth organization in the nation.

THROUGHOUT the year 4-H'ers take part in club meetings, projects of their choice, committee work, and other local activities to plan and carry out programs of interest to them.

4-H is fun and learning. If you are between 9 and 19 years, you can join 4-H and have the time of your life, contends Miss Callahan. For details, contact your county Extension office.

Ralph Yarborough to speak at SU Wed.

Former U. S. Senator Ralph Yarborough will speak at Southwestern University at noon Wednesday, April 20, to Southwestern's Political Science Society.

The public is invited to the informal meeting in the University Commons. Visitors are invited to go through the cafeteria line or bring their own lunch and bring their trays upstairs.

Yarborough, who served in the senate from 1957-71, will be speaking on his career in government and answering questions from the floor.

Yarborough's life has been marked by other periods of public service. From 1931-34 he served as assistant attorney general of Texas and as a state district judge in Austin from 1936-40. He served in the Armed Forces during World War II. Recently, he served as a member of the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission.

During his Senate career, he was a member of several subcommittees. Among these were the education sub-committee, the health sub-committee, and the veterans sub-committee. He chaired the veterans subcommittee for 11 of his 13 years in the Senate.

Yarborough considers his work with education legislation to be his principal activity while in the Senate. He was author or co-author of all five congressional laws under which money was voted to aid students in going to college. These include the National Defense Education Loan Funds of 1958, the work study program, the Cold War GI Bill, the Opportunity Grants, and the Insured Loans for middle income students.

RALPH YARBOROUGH

SU program on bluegrass music, Wed.

A program on "Country Gospel Music: A Theology of the People" will be presented at Southwestern University Wednesday, April 20.

The Reverend Jay Hardy will present the lecture and tape recordings of Bluegrass gospel music at 7:30 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge of Bishops Memorial Union at Southwestern.

Hardy is an honor graduate of Southwestern (1973) and has received a master of divinity degree from Candler School of Theology at Emory University in Atlanta.

Hardy had a recent article in the magazine 1977 Pickin' on the subject "The Beginning of Bluegrass Gospel Music."

Any interested person is invited to attend. Admission is free.

Mackey in National Week operation

Navy Radioman First Class L. C. Mackey, son of Hosea Mackey of 309 Oak St. in Taylor, participated in the U. S. Sixth Fleet operation "National Week XXII."

He is a crewmember aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Farragut, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

"National Week XXII" was an eight-day exercise involving more than 30 Sixth Fleet ships, 18 aircraft squadrons and a Marine battalion landing team. The exercise included simulated combat operations, emphasizing antisubmarine and air defense, amphibious warfare and logistics support elements at sea. The exercise took place in the Tyrrhenian and Ionian Seas, near Sicily.

Additionally, he and his fellow shipmates had the opportunity to visit Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia during a six-day port visit.

Donald Pleasence: deflated on film

I like to tackle any part that's different from the ones I've done before," says actor Donald Pleasence, who plays a dirt farmer with aspirations to be a rodeo promoter in "Goldenrod," a special airing April 20 over CBS.

"Film work is different from the theatre in one respect," notes Pleasence. "In the theatre you do a performance and it's done. But movies follow you around for the rest of your life!"

Asked if he made a habit of watching himself on the screen, his reply was instant:

"Once I've done the work, I'm restless to move on to the next project. The trouble is, I have this utterly absurd image of myself as being tall, possessing sterling blue eyes and cracking good looks, but on the screen comes this little, bald headed creep. Very unsettling."

"I would certainly consider doing a television series," he says, "depending on what I was asked to do. When they first brought 'Steptoe and Son' to American television from England, and renamed it 'Sanford and Son,' I was considered for the role of the owner of the junkyard.

"In 'Goldenrod,' I had the greatest fun inventing things to flesh out the part of this crazy dirt farmer. I get to drive a big white car with a horn that blares out the wildest trumpet fanfare you ever heard."

Currently, Pleasence is working on a theatrical release called "Telefon."

"It's just a thriller," he chuckles. "Charles Bronson is in it and I'm just a simple little guy who tries to blow up America. Bronson gets to break my neck in the end of the picture. I fare a little better in 'Goldenrod.' I do change horses in midstream and become a rodeo promoter.

"How's that for a happy ending?"

"How can I spend so much time reminiscing? Easy. Because of the duck I became interested in going to the race track and now I spend too much free time there. Do you remember the most famous duck on TV?"

Harris, now playing first trumpet in Doc Severinsen's Tonight Show orchestra, was one of the original musicians who played for the radio and TV versions of Groucho Marx's You Bet Your Life. In fact it was Maurie who played the musical interlude -- it's heard at the beginning of each race at the track -- whenever someone said the secret word, and the duck came down.

Donald Pleasence

"It was a lot of fun working on that show," Maurie recalled. "First the band was led by Jerry Fielding, then Jack Meakin. Groucho would always make remarks about the guys in the band, it was always 'Do you have to. . .' or 'Why do you have to. . .' but it was only for laughs. Because I played the strains that you hear at the races, I began to go out to the track and now I spend too much time there. All because of a duck."

TV Star Scene

Marlon Brando in a TV pilot? That's not as crazy as it sounds. Brando, who has always known how to use the media, is developing a pilot for a projected PBS series about the Indians of North, Central and South America. Brando will serve as executive director for the series, to be called The First Americans . . . Among those rounded up for an NBC special, "The Fabulous Fifties," are Red Skelton, Lucille Ball, Michael Landon and Dinah Shore. The documentary will feature film clips from shows that reigned in the '50s.

Richard Benjamin, who has made a career out of playing creeps, stars in an upcoming NBC pilot in another dirty role -- the commander of an outer space garbage scow. Buck Henry wrote it and it's called "Quark" . . . Getting back to the '50s, Dobie Gillis premiered in 1959, and now, 18 years later Dobie may be returning to the small screen. CBS has a pilot in the works for an updated, version, starring Dwayne Hickman and Bob Denver again.

Will Sampson, who played the big Indian in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," plays a state trooper in a CBS TV-movie, "Relentless." Monte Markham co-stars as an FBI agent in this bank robbery and chase yarn . . . Jim Henson's baby, The Muppet Show, won the British Academy of Film and Television Arts as "Best Light Entertainment Programme" of 1976. Princess Anne presented the award to director Peter Harris.

Chevy Chase will bring his off-the-wall brand of humor to his first NBC special on May 5. He's assembled a line-up of guests that at best can be described as unusual: comedian Tim Conway, physical fitness freak Jack LaLanne, the singing Shapiro Sisters, psychologist Dr. Joyce Brothers, heavyweight boxers Jimmy Ellis, Ken Norton and Duane Bobick, golf pro Dave Stockton, rock band Stuff and the 12 dogs of Moore's Mongrel Revue. Norton and Bobick will appear with Chase and Conway in a boxing sketch a few days prior to their Madison Square Garden bout (set for live coverage on NBC May 11). Ellis will also appear in the sketch.

Devilish doings are in the works at two of the networks. Principal production has been completed on "The Possessed," a 90-minute NBC flick set for April 30. James Farentino plays a defrocked priest whose mission in life is to combat evil (an odd variation on his recent role of Simon Peter in "Jesus of Nazareth"). The story involves a supernatural threat to a girl's school, which is a helluva unoriginal idea if there ever was one. But with Farentino and also Joan Hackett and Claudette Nevins in the cast, maybe they'll give it some class. It's a pilot, by the way. Over at ABC, Dack Rambo, Elyssa Davalos, Dan O'Herlihy, Richard Lynch and John Harkins are starred in "Good Against Evil." The network is calling it a dramatic story of a young couple who fall in love in San Francisco and plan to marry, although a priest realizes that she is possessed by evil forces. (But can she cook?)

Peter Falk's Columbo series is back in action, resuming production with an episode featuring Theodore Bikel and Samantha Eggar, set for later in the season . . . Elsewhere, Jack Klugman, whose Quincy series spun-off from NBC Sunday Mystery Movie (home of Columbo), hated one of his scripts so much that he refused to do it. As such he appears briefly in the episode and the story works around him. Attaboy, Jack!

He just played an advisor to Pontius Pilate, he's been a Sicilian Mafioso and a hard-hat construction worker, a ball player and Joseph of the Old Testament. Now Tony Lo Bianco has moved along further and is playing a rodeo rider in "Goldenrod," the CBS special set for April 20.

"An actor is a neutral human being with many avenues," says Lo Bianco. "He must reach down inside his being and become as naked as he can, then find things to turn him into the character he is to become. I really do believe in transformation -- I must slip into the body of some other human being and become whoever he is."

'Airport '77'

Jack Lemmon gets into action

By DAN LEWIS

Jack Lemmon eased down into a club chair, lit up a cigar and offered a drink, as he sipped his own. It was the middle day in a whirlwind 72-hour publicity binge in New York for his latest film, "Airport '77," the third in a series of plane disaster flicks which started with an adaptation of Arthur Hailey's novel.

"If I didn't like this picture, I wouldn't have the guts to go out," Lemmon was saying. "I don't believe in pushing pictures that need help. I believe only in helping pictures I believe in."

In this third episode of the "Airport" series, the disaster occurs in the Bermuda Triangle. A wide-belly 747 aircraft plunges into the Carribean Sea and sinks to the bottom. It's passengers are sealed, alive, in the fusilage.

For Jack Lemmon, this is the first action film in a career in which he became the only actor in history to win coveted Academy Awards in Best Actor and Best Supporting Actor categories. His performance as Ensign Pulver in "Mr. Roberts" was rewarded with a Best Supporting Oscar, and more recently, he won the Best Actor statuette for portraying the middle-aged businessman scheming to burn down his plant for insurance in "Save the Tiger."

He was explaining now why, and how, he wound up in the "Airport" series.

"I got this call from Jennings Lang (senior vice president of Universal Pictures and executive producer of this film). Jennings starts out by telling me not to hang up, but he has this script he wants me to read. I ask what it's about, and he tells me it's 'Airport '77'. So I hang-up."

Lemmon laughs as he recalls the incident, then adds he quickly called Lang back. Assured Lang was serious, Lemmon agreed to read the script. He liked it.

He's realistic about its appeal. "I know it's not a critic's picture," Lemmon observes, anticipating downers in their reviews. But he expects it will be a big commercial success. Large-cast, sweeping disaster films have done well at the box office and among the bevy of stars in "Airport '77" are Jimmy Stewart, Lee Grant, and Olivia de Havilland in her first Hollywood picture in years.

There is another importnt element for Lemmon. Large, successful commercial films give an actor a chance to do the small, more meaningful pictures.

"It's easier to raise money for the small, more effective films if you're coming off a smash hit," Lemmon noted. "It's an important side effect. It took us two years to get 'Save the Tiger' off the ground. No one wanted to finance it."

"Days of Wine and Roses," for which Lemmon was nominated for an Oscar, took more than a year to get off the ground.

"They begged me not to do it," Lemmon recalls. "They said a picture about a couple of drunks (Lee Remick co-starred) would never make it." Although he didn't win an Oscar for "Wine and Roses," it is regarded as one of Lemmon's finest performances.

This was a good career experience for Lemmon. Making his first appearance in an action drama proved an education. He learned the art of "instant acting."

"There is no time to develop characters in action films," Lemmon observed. "When they make this kind of film, they look for the actors who can move quickly. It was exciting for me."

"Airport '77" was directed by Jerry Jameson, a young man on his first major feature assignment.

"It took a lot of chutzpah (Yiddish expression for "nerve") to put him in the director's chair," Lemmon declared. "The kid never had done a big feature. Oh, he had directed in television, some marvelous things, and I don't mean to denegrate television. But here he is on this multi-million dollar picture and he was great."

In fact, there are a lot of new, young directors in the feature business these days, and Lemmon is one of their most ardent boosters.

"I'm getting nuts about these young directors. My next picture ("China Syndrome") has two young writers, one of whom will direct," Lemmon revealed, and, by way of confirming how new and young they are, he couldn't remember their names, and had to check a piece of notepaper in his picket on which their names were inscribed -- Mike Gray and Tom Cook. Gray is the writer-director.

Lemmon has worked with these ambitious fledlings almost exclusively in recent years. John Avildsen directed him in "Save the Tiger," and John Korte in "Alex and the Gypsy." In "Tiger," Lemmon gave his Oscar-winning performance. As for the other film, Lemmon acknowledges that "it didn't work well," but he still was impressed with Korte's work.

"Would you believe it, these young guys cut their teeth on X-pictures. Not the hard porno stuff, but things like Avildsen's 'Joe.' They've learned their craft, and don't get pushed into corners. These new directors learned from the past masters, but they're not bound by them. They don't imitate, and they don't get trapped.

"They also get help from things like the Motion Picture Academy and the American Film Institute. They get grants to make 8-minute shorts, and they know someone important is going to see it."

His own directing career is in limbo at the moment. A few years back he directed his close friend, Walter Matthau, in a nice little film titled "Kotch," and he was pleased with the result. He has no current plans to direct again, but says he would like to, eventually.

"Every actor should direct. It teaches the actor to concentrate on the whole scene, and not just interpret his own role," Lemmon contended.

JACK LEMMON: There is no time to develop characters in action films. When they make this kind of film they look for the actors who can move quickly. It was exciting for me."

GANGSTER -- I know that Robert Blake was in the Our Gang comedy series. What I would like to know is what part did he play? I read that he played Mickey and that that is his real name. Could you please verify this for me? Kim Pittman, Kelso, Wash.

Your information is correct. Blake did appear in several Our Gang features as Mickey. His real name is Mickey Gubitosi, the name he acted under as a child.

TROUBLE -- Whatever happened to George Maharis? I heard he got into trouble several times, but he was too good an actor to just give up show business. Do you know if he plans to ever do a series again? R. West, Van Buren, Ark.

Nothing happened to him. He recently appeared in a guest spot on Police Story and has been making the series rounds all year, as well as doing made-for-TV pictures. He did run into trouble last year for allegedly making advances at another man in a rest stop. It was apparently the second such incident. But, this has not seemed to affect his career. I don't know if he'll be offered a series soon.

DEAD MAN -- Will you please tell me if Rudy (Peter Strauss) on Rich Man, Poor Man, Book 2 is really dead, or did he just pass out? Also, is there going to be a Book 3? Cristina Cartoceti, Southbury, Conn.

Strauss passed right out of the picture. You can assume he's dead. Strauss only agreed to do one season of the series, so he would have enough of what he calls "screw-you" money to be able to do other projects. No decision has been made about a Book 3 yet.

SMITHIE -- Did Burt Reynolds play a blacksmith in Gunsmoke several years ago? I think he did. Mrs. W.N. Miller, Fiarview, Okla.

Yup, he sure did.

LITTLE LADY -- In "Little Ladies of the Night," Linda Purl played a 14 and one-half year old. I know she wasn't that young. So how old is she? Also, could you tell me some other things she's been in? J.R. Anderson, Wolcott, Conn.

Linda may have a baby face, but she's in her early 20s. She grew up in Tokyo while her father was there with Union Carbide, but soon came to New York to the theatre. Then it was off to the golden West Coast, where her first role was in Happy Days -- a part that carried on into six episodes. Her biggest TV parts were in "Little Ladies" and the two "Young Pioneers" movies. Her next role is in "Testimony of Two Men," another Taylor Caldwell novel-for-television adaptation.

CRUSHED -- I have a crush on Bruce Boxleitner who I think was the same guy who played on "How the West Was Won" and "Murder at the World Series." Could you please tell me where I could write to him? Also, do you think I would get a fan letter he wrote himself, since he isn't that popular yet? Heidi Williams, Thomasville, N.C.

Boxleitner was in both of those flicks. Your best bet in writing him is in care of How the West Was Won, ABC-TV, 4151 Prospect Ave., Los Angeles, CA. 90027. You'll be glad to know he has a good chance of being on the tube weekly next season with How the West Was Won.

THIEF -- Did Henry Winkler really steal the character of The Fonz from Sylvester Stallone? Jack Howard, Greenwood, Miss.

Winkler has said a number of times that he patterned The Fonz after a character Stallone played in "The Lords of Flatbush," which also starred Winkler. I wouldn't call it theft. Let's say imitation is the best form of flattery, or whatever that cliche is. Anyway, now that they're both stars in the Hollywood heavens, I don't suppose it matters much.

Send your questions to TV Dial-ogue, care of this newspaper.

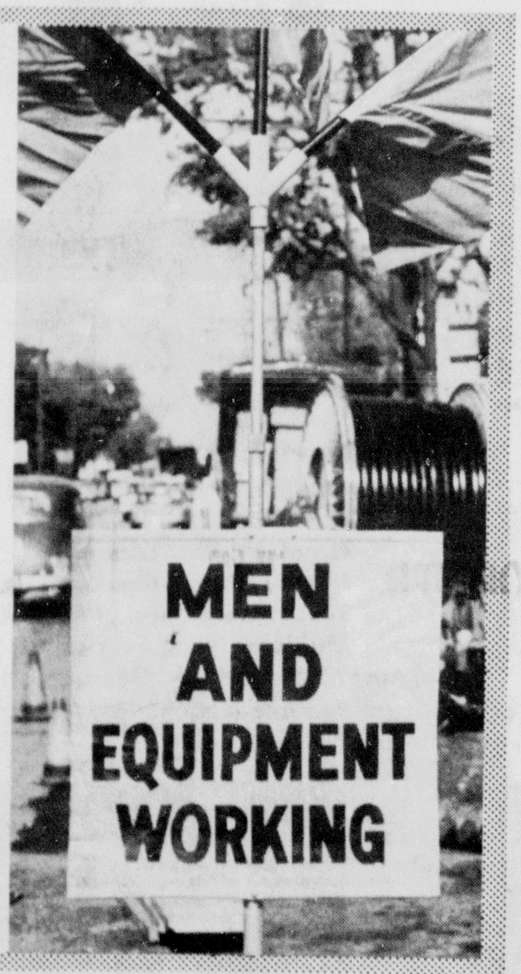
MEN WORKING

This is the sign that should be lifted high in our beloved country — "Men Working." Men working with all they have and are, for a country that must show the world how to live in brotherhood and love and peace under God.

Let us resolve to dedicate anew our lives and our talents to our country and our God when we attend church



The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Howry is April Tex-Anne

CINDY HOWRY

Cindy Howry, daughter of Mrs. Billy Howry, has been selected by the Georgetown Optimist Club as Young Tex-Anne for the month of April.

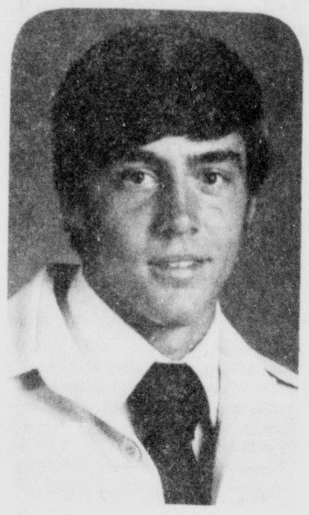
Cindy is a senior at Georgetown High School. She has been a very active and outstanding student and has served our school as cheerleader, band member, member of the tennis team and track team. She also played basketball her freshman year. Cindy was a member of F.H.A. her freshman year, Radio Club her freshman and junior years, and is a member of Junior Historians this year. She was elected to the National Honor Society her junior year and is a member of the Student Council this year.

Honors received by this vivacious senior have been Honor Junior for the 1975-76 Senior class, Homecoming Queen this year, Head Cheerleader and Georgetown Woman's Club Guest of Honor for the month of October.

Recently Cindy was crowned Miss G.H.S. at the High School Coronation.

After graduation Cindy plans to attend college to major in Physical Education or Physical Therapy.

Giese chosen Young Texan



DAVID GIESE

David Giese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Giese, has been selected Young Texan for the month of April by the Georgetown Optimist Club. David is a senior at Georgetown High School.

David has been a very active student. He played basketball his entire high school career, serving as captain his junior year. He was named to the Second All-District Team. He also played football his sophomore year and golf his freshman year. David was selected to the National Honor Society his junior year.

Giese has also served as Representative on the Student Council his sophomore year, Senator his junior year and he holds the office of Parlimentarian this year.

David recently was crowned Mr. G.H.S., an honor given to one senior boy by the entire high school student body. He was honored by the Georgetown Rotary Club as Junior Rotarian last January.

After graduation, David will attend Temple Junior College to start his career in criminology. He will transfer to Sam Houston State University for his degree.

NATALIE HUBBARD

Natalie Hubbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubbard, has been selected Guest of Honor for the month of April by the Georgetown Woman's Club. Natalie is a senior at Georgetown High School.

Natalie has been a member of the high school band since her sophomore year. She is also a Scribe for Soc'N Buskin as well as photographer for the paper staff and head photographer for the annual staff.

She won the Photography III Award in 1975 at the Trinity Journalism Workshop. She also serves as academics section editor for the annual staff.

Natalie was a member of F.H.A. for three years, serving as historian for two years. She was a member of Junior Historians her junior year and served as reporter and a member of the Spanish Club her sophomore and junior years. She entered U.I.L. spelling her freshman year and feature writing this year.

Natalie is an outstanding photographer and has served our school well. She is especially interested in photographing children, people and nature.

Natalie will continue her education in this field next fall at Austin Community College for two years and then on to a four year college for her degree.

SU alumni plan party for April

A party for Southwestern University alumni who live in the Austin area will be held April 29 at the Headliner's Club in Austin at 7 p.m.

Hosts for the hamburgers-and-tacos affair will be Alumni Board president Dorothy Davidson, Tom Forbes, Mark Griffin, Stacy Langston Griffin, Jane Rogers Matthews, Russell Matthews, Joann Long Morse, Skip Morse and Ernest Nieto.

Cost will be $5 per person, and those planning to attend have been asked to RSVP during working hours to Georgetown's 863-6511 (ext. 281) or to Austin's 475-5464 (Tom Forbes' office).

DISCOVER 4 -H

By CAROLYN BONNER & EDWARD WILKIE

EIGHT 4HERS will represent Williamson County in the District 4-H Food Show Saturday at Hancock Center in Austin.

Those from Williamson County in the senior division, 14 and up, are: Elaine Lange of Thrall, Jana Rohlack of Coupland, and Molly Crider and Edwina Adamek of Granger.

In the junior division, age 9 to 12 years old, are: Michelle Stromberg and Kristen Werchan of Hutto, Cheryl Dedeck of Georgetown, and Kara Petrus of Coupland.

These eight will compete with 120 youngsters representing a 17-county district. They are judged on their knowledge of nutrition and the food they prepare.

The judging will begin at 10 a.m. The displays will be open to the public at 12:30 p.m. with an awards program at 1 p.m.

4-HERS ARE WORKING on demonstrations to be presented April 22 at County Contests. The contests will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Hutto School. The public is invited to attend.

The 4-Hers will present 8 to 12 minute demonstrations on a wide range of subjects from horses to foods. These demonstrations are based on something they have learned in their 4-H projects.

Those winning at county will advance to District 4-H Contests to be held in Bastrop on April 30.

4-H ADULT AND YOUTH LEADERS who are interested in aquatic science projects, water sports, or 4-H record books are invited to participate in one of these three weekend workshops at the Texas 4-H Center near Brownwood on May 14 and 15, 1977.

Aquatic science workshop sessions will include aquarium culture, marine biology, and recreational information from Dr. James T. Davis, Extension Fisheries Specialist.

4-H record book training for both advanced and beginning 4-H leaders will be given by 4-H and Youth Specialists George McArthur and Martha Conch.

The water sports workshop participants will receive training in the conduct of water games, safety skills, and waterfront-management techniques needed in preparation for summer-camp activities.

Registration forms and additional details for the workshop training sessions are available from the County Extension Office, 3rd Floor, Courthouse, Georgetown (phone 863-2318).

THE GEORGETOWN 4-H CLUB has planned a Hayride for its members on April 23, from 7 - 9 p.m. Plans are to meet at the concrete slab in San Gabriel Park. Each member is to bring enough wieners and buns for himself and their guest (each club member may invite one guest). The 4-H Club will furnish the trimmings and cold drinks.

7 teacher contracts will be reconsidered in Leander Thursday

Two new trustees and one incumbent took their seats on the Leander school board Tuesday night, as a standing room only crowd showed their approval with loud applause.

IN A SURPRISING show of solidarity after the heated school board race, incumbent A. C. Bible was voted in by acclamation as the new board president.

"That was the fastest thing we have done for a year," said Bible, after the board's vote of confidence.

THE MORE THAN 65 persons attending the meeting clapped again as plaques were presented to the two members leaving the board.

Les Wilson, speaking for the board, thanked James Moore for his three years of service on the board and Willie Todd for her one year of service on the board.

Moore chose not to run for reelection, and Todd was defeated in the election by Bradford.

SCHOOL BOARD ATTORNEY James Overstreet said that he would no longer attend regular board meetings and would no longer receive the $750 a month retainer from the school district for his attendance at the meetings.

"I will continue to represent the board on an hourly basis in litigation and in hearings," said Overstreet.

The boards former policy of having their lawyer present at all meetings, and the $750 retainer fee, had been a much discussed campaign issue in the Apirl 2 election.

ALL THREE candidates who won in the election had promised to stop having the attorney present at regular meetings.

The new board set a special meeting for Thursday, April 21, at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the contracts of the seven high school teachers and staff members that were fired by the board several weeks ago.

THE TEACHER firings also became a major issue in the election, and the new board is expected to vote to reinstate the seven teachers and staff members on April 21.

PREPARING TO PRESERVE GEORGETOWN'S HERITAGE — The new Georgetown Heritage Society held its organizational meeting on Thursday night. The purpose of the organization will be "to preserve and enhance the quality of life in the Georgetown area." Restoration architect Wayne Bell spoke to the crowd who attended this meeting. After the program and business meeting, the Sun photographer caught Lynn Burnette, one of the organizers of the group who presided at this first meeting; the speaker, Wayne Bell; Clare Mashburn, an organizer, secretary for the first meeting and member of the Georgetown School Board; and City Council Member Carl Doering discussing plans for the future of the society.

SIXTH GRADERS GIVE — Sixth grade students at Northside Middle School took up a collection after the death of their classmate, Cindy Rydell, to pay for flowers for her funeral. They collected $53.95 more than they needed for this purpose, however. The group decided to give the remainder of the money to the Cancer Crusade as a memorial for Cindy. Several representatives of the class, (left to right) Delana Lands, Joe Golson and (far right) Denise Christopher presented a check to cancer drive representative Betty Parsons (second from right) on Wednesday morning.

Restoration architect addresses first Heritage Society meeting

The Georgetown Heritage Society held its organizational meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Ames-Eanes House at 1004 Church Street.

Approximately 60 persons attended the meeting to hear noted restoration architect Wayne Bell of the Austin firm of Bell, Klein and Hoffman speak on historic perservation and contemporary development. He showed some 40 slides and gave a narrative called "Look Back into the Future."

BELL IS PAST president of the Society of Architectual Historians. He teaches preservation design, preservation philosophy and building documentation at the University of Texas at Austin and also directs the Graduate Preservation Program there.

Some noted restoration projects he has directed are the Walter Tipps House in Austin, the Littlefield House at the University of Texas, Ima Hogg's Winedale properties, the Landmark Inn in Castroville and the House of the Seasons in Jefferson.

Aside from the program, the society had to get down to the business of organizing. Lynn Burnette presided at the meeting and was given permission to appoint a nominating committee and by-laws committee to get the organization rolling.

FOLLOWING THE BUSINESS meeting and program, these attending browsed through an exhibit of old photos belonging to Clara Scarbrough, Otha Ullrich, Dr. and Mrs. Van Tipton, Wanda Lancaster and the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce. There was also an exhibit of booklets, pamphlets and papers coming from the research the organizers of the society did in learning how to start such a group.

The next meeting of the Georgetown Heritage Society will be on May 19 in the Ames-Eanes House.

Speakers for this last meeting of this school year will be former Mayor Hugh Raupe and Mary Lou Watkins of Granbury. They are two of the persons who were most involved in the restoration of the Granbury Courthouse Square. The topic of their talk and slide presentation will be how they went about this task.

REMEMBER THE LADIES is the title of the book that the Georgetown Women's Political Caucus gave to the Georgetown Library this week. The Sun caught Fran Carlson of the Caucus (left) and Librarian Philpot (right) as they looked through the book. The full title of the new addition to the library shelves is Remember the Ladies, Women in America 1750-1815. Written by Linda Grant DePauw and Conover Hunt, the work is filled with pictures and includes chapters on love and marriage, motherhood, sickness and death, domesticity, women at work, women and religion, women at war, accomplished women, fashionable ladies, creative women, Presidents' ladies and liberty and equaility.

Working wives eligible for disability pay

Working wives who become disabled sometimes don't realize that they may be eligible for social security disability payments even though their husbands are working.

A wife and her children can get social security disability payments on her work record regardless of her husband's earnings—if she has worked long enough in jobs covered by social security. The children can get payments until they're 18, or 22 if they are full-time students in school and remain unmarried.

A working wife facing a long-term disability should get in touch with a social security office without delay to get information about applying for disability benefits.

San Gabriel Heights homeowners discuss problems of hi-density apartment complex

Residents of San Gabriel Heights met again this week in called meeting to discuss problems involving a Dallas developer's proposed 130-160 unit hi-density apartment complex, bordering on the east boundaries of San Gabriel homes.

Spokesperson Marie McDonald said that San Gabriel residents do not question the need for apartments in Georgetown. "There is currently a number of duplex homes being built there. We are vitally concerned with growth plans of the area, pertinent to provisions existing to serve them.

"Water is painfully inadequate for existing homes. Other city services will be strained. City schools are over-crowded. Traffic on Leander road is hazardous at peak hours. City Police are stretched thin. Fire protection is questionable with the existing water system," McDonald pointed out.

"With the City Limits already expanded to cover proposed home development areas, what will a 160 unit complex do to currently approved growth areas?" she asked.

A committee was appointed to research and correlate information to present to City Dads. Those serving are Neal Proctor, Alva Finck, Bill Putney, Hank Carver, and Tom Ardrey.

A General Meeting will again be held in the Festive Room at First National Bank, on Tuesday, May 3, at 7:30, to hear proposals of the Working Committee, and also to act on By-laws proposed by the Directors.

11 Cent Coffee Increase Ups Market Basket Survey

AUSTIN--Texas consumers paid slightly more for commodities purchased in the March market basket survey, conducted by the Texas Department of Agriculture, with the increase hitting their coffee cup rather than their overall food budget.

An increase of 11 cents for a pound of coffee was offset by lowered averages of other shopping buys, and the seventh monthly survey showed a four-cent increase of the total $19.50 basket price.

A dozen eggs, at 81 cents, dropped an average of 11 cents in the 12 Texas survey cities and helped to hold down the total food bill.

Despite some fears that citrus product prices would take a big leap following the winter freeze which destroyed most of the Florida crop, frozen orange juice increased by an average of only two cents per six oz. can, averaging 28 cents.

Fresh Texas citrus, now in peak supply, is also a special food bargain, with experts in the citrus industry explaining that the Texas crop, which incurred no freeze damage, is one of the best in several years.

San Antonio maintained its lead as the cheapest city of those surveyed, with its total bill of $18.12 up two cents from February. On the other hand, the McAllen-Edinburg March basket price of $20.10 though down 32 cents from February, again put it in last place as the most expensive of the 12 survey areas.

Other cities in order of their March prices and with a comparison to February totals are: Laredo, $19.15 to $18.95; Austin, $19.17 to $18.97; Abilene, $19.36 to $19.50; Tyler, $19.44 to $19.22; El Paso, $19.56 to $19.30; Corpus Christi, $19.63 to $19.68; Fort Worth, $19.63 to $19.58; Dallas, $19.71 to $19.78; Lubbock, $19.78 to $19.68; and Houston, $20.06 to $19.73.

Besides coffee, eggs and orange juice, the 17 other commodities surveyed, their average March price and comparisons with February are: one gallon one-half per cent low fat milk, $1.41 to $1.39; one gallon whole homogenized vitamin D milk, $1.64 to $1.66; one 12 oz. package individually wrapped American cheese singles, $1.30 both months; one pound margarine, 53 cents to 52 cents; 24 oz. loaf white sandwich bread, 41 cents to 42 cents; one pound whole fryer chicken, 51 cents both months; one pound regular ground beef, 78 cents to 80 cents; and one pound grain-fed round steak with bone, $1.41 to $1.42.

Also, one pound family pack pork chops, $1.22 to $1.25; 6½ oz. can light chuck tuna, 68 cents both months; one pound bacon, $1.23 to $1.22; one pound red delicious apples, 48 cents to 46 cents; 18 oz. box corn flakes, 72 cents to 71 cents; one head fresh lettuce, 45 cents to 44 cents; one pound fresh tomatoes, 71 cents to 73 cents; one pound dry pinto beans, 24 cents both months; and 49 oz. box detergent, $1.44 to $1.45.

★Cleanup Week

Wood said city and county crews would make constant pickups in every section of the city from before 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day, beginning Tuesday and continuing through Friday.

VOLUNTEERS from the community will be asked to assist with cleanup operations Thursday and Friday.

Those who wish to volunteer should report to the city's water plant on West 8th St. at 4 p.m. both days. They will work from just after business hours until about dark.

The Georgetown VFW Post will host a sausage dinner for volunteers after the completion of Cleanup Campaign activities Friday night.

Assisting with this year's efforts are Williamson County Commissioners Wesley Foust and Carl Lidell and Southwestern University's Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Tax refunds up

Washington

The IRS says Americans are getting record-high income tax refunds this year — an average $448 so far — and more are checking off a buck or two for presidential campaign funds than did last year.

But taxpayers also are making a lot more mistakes in filling out their 1976 return — especially the so-called short form, 1040A.

Of the 83 million returns expected to be filed by Saturday's deadline, nearly 47 million had been processed as of April 1, Internal Revenue Service spokesmen said.

Of the 47 million taxpayers who have been through the mill, 39.7 million got refunds. The average amount returned has been $447.58, compared with $417.26 at the same time last year.

After all returns were counted last year, the average refunded was $426.42 — the highest ever up to that time.

New warranty rules will aid consumers

Appliance warranties should be easier to find and understand—because of new federal rules to help consumers, Mrs. Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist, says.

THEY REQUIRE a company to disclose a number of facts on a product over $15 if a warranty is offered—but the law does not require warranties, the specialist explained.

Mrs. McCormack is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Among facts a company must disclose are 1) to whom the warranty is extended, 2) what it covers, 3) respective warrantor and consumer responsibilities and 4) when the warranty begins, if date is other than purchase date.

"MORE IMPORTANTLY, sellers are bound by law to make warranties available for consumer perusal at point of purchase," Mrs. McCormack noted.

—displayed in close conjunction to the warranted product,

—in a binder prominently title "Warranties" and indexed by product or warrantor (if binder is not evident, signs should indicate its location),

—on product package or container.

Also, because of the act, warranties now will be labeled "full" or "limited."

"FULL" WARRANTY means a warrantor will repair a defective product within a reasonable time, without charge — or for a product that cannot be repaired, the warrantor will give a refund or replacement.

A warranty must be labeled "limited," if there are any coverage restrictions — for instance, those that pay only part of the repair costs, such as labor.
